Cape County Receives Latest Crime Details

JACKSON — Area law enforcement will be strengthened with the installation of a communications system at the Cape Girardeau county sheriff's office that can bring latest crime information from across the nation at a moment's notice.

Sheriff Ivan McLain said today the system, which costs $225 monthly, is being hooked up with highway patrol headquarters in Jefferson City and the National Crime Information Center in Washington, D.C.

Hy said all information checks can be had almost immediately on persons or vehicles and selected checks on property.

The new 24-hour system comprises an arm of the statewide Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System.

The monthly cost will be paid for two years by the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

Sheriff McLain said deputies James Ainsworth and Stephen Poe will attend a three - day school to learn to fully implement the system. They in turn will teach other officers.

The system, which will get underway this week, will be utilized by all law enforcement agencies in the area.

Fate Of Antiwar Amendment Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — A double-barreled antiwar amendment appears likely to pass the Senate and move to an uncertain House fate, perhaps before President Nixon's next Vietnam troop withdrawal announcement Nov. 15.

The Senate amendment to the foreign aid bill would require total U.S. withdrawal within six months and would cut off funds for American military operations throughout Indochina except the amount necessary for withdrawing forces and protecting the pull-out.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Saturday the amendment "should end the stalemate" and insure the swift return of U.S. soldiers and prisoners of war.

Senate debate begins Tuesday on the bill which would also limit U.S. spending and personnel in Cambodia and expand the committee's jurisdiction over all U.S. aid in Southeast Asia.

Although the House has consistently rejected similar amendments, the margin has narrowed to fewer than 30 votes despite vigorous White House lobbying against such measures.

Pentagon sources have indicated the President could announce a total withdrawal of American ground combat troops by next July and possibly sooner.

But the White House has given no indication of the magnitude of next month's announcement.

Meanwhile, a British guerrilla warfare expert predicted the phase-out of American ground troops will be virtually complete "within a month or two."

Sir Robert Thompson, a personal consultant to Nixon on Indochina, said in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report:

"I can hardly imagine that within a month or two any American ground forces will be involved in combat other than those who are providing close security at American bases."

Thompson said the pace of troop withdrawal could be stepped up so that no more than 50,000 would remain in Vietnam by next summer.

The antiwar amendment, the Foreign Relations Committee asserted, would "declare a clear national policy in Indochina" for withdrawal in six months if American prisoners were freed.

The amendment incorporates the Mansfield amendment setting the six-month deadline which passed the Senate and was defeated on a procedural vote in the House last Tuesday. The tally was 215-193, closest yet on such a measure.

House antiwar forces, however, say they doubt they could muster enough votes to actually cut off funds for the war, an additional provision of the new amendment authored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Wife Being Held In Slaying Case

CHARLESTON-- Elbert Horton, 39, farm laborer, who lived at Roamer Courts, was shot and killed at 5 p.m. Sunday at the home of his common-law wife, Mrs. Mary Riggins, 36, of route two.

According to Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, Horton was shot once in the abdomen with a single shot 12-gauge shotgun by Mrs. Riggins.

Horton reportedly was attempting to break into the house and officers were told by one of the couple's five children that Horton told Mrs. Riggins "if you don't kill me, I'll kill you."

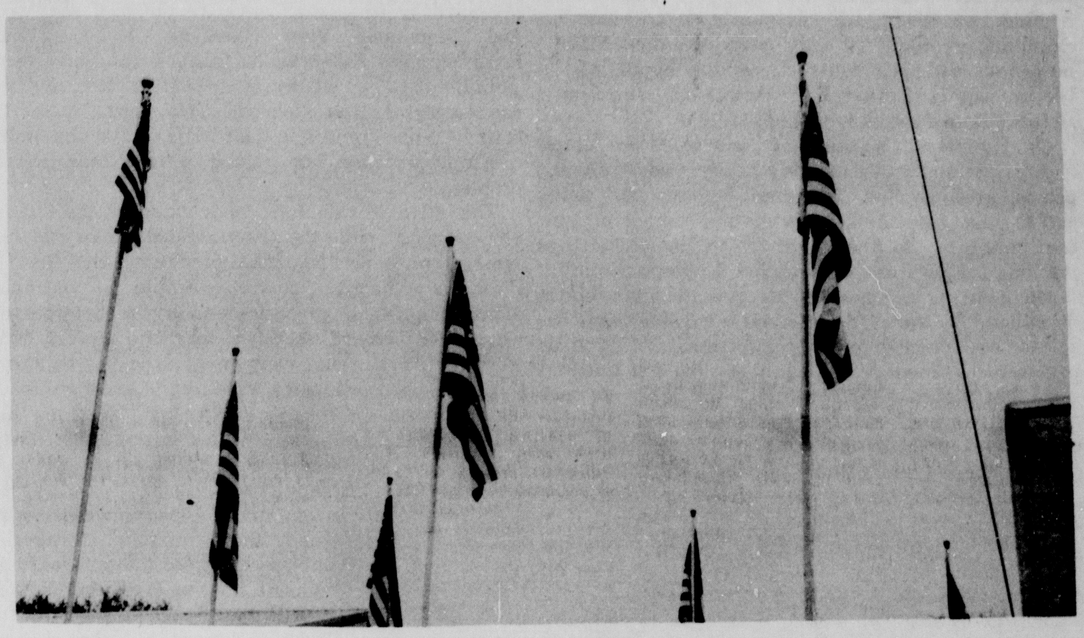

Mrs. Riggins, who has not made a statement, is being held for investigation, of murder in the Mississippi county jail.

Horton was born May 15, 1932 in Clarkton.

He lived in Mississippi county since 1938.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Bertha Horton of rural Charleston; one son, Elbert Horton Jr., four daughters, Beverly, Caroline, Maggie and Evelyn Horton; six brothers, T. C., Garland, and Fletcher Horton all of St. Louis, Arlee Horton of Haynes City, Fla., Willie and Eugene Horton, both of Charleston; and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Jean Allen of Mansfield, Ohio, and Miss Athalee Horton of Charleston.

The body was taken to Sparks Funeral Home.

In a tribute to fighting men, six American flags have been raised in front of the American Legion hall on South Kingshighway.

Holdup Denied

A Bell City resident has identified two Sunset Addition residents as the men who robbed him of $70 at gunpoint Sunday morning.

Floyd Wiley told police two men stopped him as he walked near Wiggin's Place in Sunset and at gunpoint robbed him of $70.

The two men were apprehended and brought to the police station but denied the charges and were released. There were no witnesses.

The incident was referred to Prosecutor Tom Gilmore.

Two Cyclists Hurt

Two boys were injured Saturday when the bicycles which they were riding collided with an automobile on North Ranney.

Police said a car driven by Harold Shelton, 33, of 730 North Ranney was southbound on North Ranney at noon Saturday when it collided with the bicycle riding youths at the intersection of Woodlawn and North Ranney. The youths were Craig Lopp, 10, of 212 Kramer Drive and Pat Hunter, 7, of route four.

Shelton and witnesses told police the two boys drove into the path of Shelton's automobile. The two were eastbound on Woodlawn.

Shelton drove the two to the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community hospital where they were admitted.

Lopp was released Sunday after treatment for cuts and bruises and Hunter remains hospitalized for cuts and bruises.

Tractor Kills Boy

MALDEN -- Kipling Wells, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wells, was killed Saturday when he either jumped or fell from a farm tractor.

The highway patrol said one of the tractor's rear wheels ran over the child's head. The tractor was being driven by Harry Bolten III, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bolten Jr., route two.

The child, whose body was taken to the Boyd Funeral Home, was dead on arrival at the Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett. The accident occurred at 2:30 p.m.

The boy was born Sept. 30, 1965.

Survivors include his parents; one sister Kimberly Wells; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Richardson of Tennessee.

Services were at 3 p.m. today at McEvoy Chapel in Paris, Tenn.

Burial was in Memorial cemetery there.

Wreck Kills Woman

One was killed and eight seriously injured Saturday night when two cars collided headon on Interstate 55 one mile north of the Arkansas line.

The highway patrol said Mrs. Walter Johnson, 42, of Cahokia, Ill., was killed when a car in which she was riding was hit by a 1960 Chevrolet convertible, driven by Robert Tucker, 43, of Wardell.

The patrol reported Tucker, who was driving north in the southbound lane, will be charged with driving while intoxicated. Tucker was injured seriously.

The patrol reported Tucker's car was being pursued by Arkansas authorities when the accident occurred at 7:30 p.m.

Others injured were Mrs. Johnson's husband, 41, driver of a 1967 Chevrolet, and his six children, Shirley 19, Susa Ann, 13, Mitchell 10, Patricia, 7, Lavergia, 5, and Trina, 1.

The injured were taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Mrs. Johnson's body was taken to the Carter Funeral Home in Caruthersville.

$15 Pants Taken

Police are looking for a man sought for Saturday night shoplifting at Wal-Mart in the Mid-Towner Shopping Center.

Wal-Mart officials told police the man, a Negro described as six feet, 180 pounds, wearing a black and yellow jacket, apparently stole a pair of men's pants valued at $15 and then fled from the store. The man ran east, turned south near Ingram Road and disappeared.

A juvenile was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of shopliifting at Wal-Marts. He was taken into custody and later released.

Woman Wounded In Irish Riots

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A woman guerrilla opened fire on British troops today and was shot and wounded, military sources reported.

The shooting occurred as the Irish Republican Army began striking back with bombs and bullets in retaliation for the weekend killing of two women by British troops.

The incident, in which one soldier was wounded, underlined what the British say may be a dangerous new phase in Northern Ireland's violence— the increasing deployment of women and girls by the outlawed IRA.

A storm of riot and protest followed the Saturday killings of 19-year-old Dorothy Maguire and her married sister, Mary Meehan, 30, mother of four.

They were hit by army bullets as they drove with friends through Belfast's Lower Falls district, an IRA stronghold.

The army insisted that two shots had been fired at soldiers from the car, and that troops were justified in firing back.

Associates denied that the sisters had fired.

This morning's Irish News, a Roman Catholic daily, carried death notices, however, identifying Miss Maguire as a staff officer of Cumann Na Bhan, the IRA women's organization.

This morning's shooting came in Belfast's Andersonstown district.

The army said troops searching houses for arms came under fire at several places.

Pictures in Irish newspapers recently have shown young women under arms training. Couples have been seen posing as young lovers in shop doorways. When they move on, a bomb goes off.

The security forces claim to have captured at least 300 hard-core IRA gunmen since internment without trial was ordered Aug. 9. Now the army says newly trained girls may be coming forward to take their place.

In addition to the woman guerrilla and the British soldier, the over-all weekend toll in Northern Ireland since Saturday was six civilians killed and one wounded by troops and police. Five soldiers and a policeman were wounded by snipers.

The policeman was shot in the head early today when he looked out of an upstairs window at his home after a knock on the front door. His condition was critical.

Detectives said they shot and killed a man, wounded a woman and captured another man Sunday after the trio planted a bomb that wrecked a Belfast night club.

The customers fled through windows and doors, and no one was injured in the explosion.

Police said the three terrorists, who were armed with automatic pistols, did not heed an order to halt, and officers opened fire.

Two sisters were shot dead in a car in Belfast, and three men were killed as they tried to rob a bank at Newry. The slayings brought the death toll to 133 in more than two years of civil strife in Northern Ireland.

Mobs attacked troops with fire bombs in Londonderry. Rioters set fire to a lumber yard in Newry and looted shops as 3,000 mourners followed the coffins of the three men killed there.

The Irish Republican Army swore to avenge the deaths with "a life for a life." At a meeting in Dublin, IRA Chief of Staff Sean MacStiofain told a cheering crowd the underground army was launching a final phase "more intensive than anything so far."

Ruairi O'Bradaigh, president of Sinn Fein, the IRA's political branch, said the movement would force the British army to withdraw from Northern Ireland by bringing down the provincial parliament there and making the province "ungovernable."

Named a vice president of the Sinn Fein was David O'Connell, 33, who is wanted by British and Dutch police in connection with three tons of Czechoslovak arms seized Sept. 16 at Amsterdam. Authorities said the weapons were intended for the IRA.

INDUSTRIAL AND HOUSING STORAGE will soon be available at the Federal Compress and Warehouse Company on North Streets and Petty Streets. The camera is pointed from the loading dock side of the 240 by 160 foot remodeled building. The project is scheduled to be completed in the next 30 days. A large paved parking lot will be in the foreground.

Assisted And Arrested

Twenty -five -year old Chester Swinney of Sikeston has been charged with the Thursday night burglary of Nancy's Sweet Shop on South Main.

Patrolman Robert Madison spotted Swinney stalled in his car late Thursday night and asked if he could give assistance. Swinney agreed and Madison drove him to a nearby telephone booth. Swinney had said he developed car trouble and wanted a repairman.

Madison delivered Seinney to a coin operated telephone, and as he drove away noticed in his rear view mirror that Swinney did not make a telephone call, but instead began to walk toward the vicinity of his automobile. Madison decided to investigate and followed Swinney back to his car.

Once at Swinney's car, Madison found $232 in the front seat and when questioned he said Swinney told him he had no knowledge of the money.

Madison investigated and found a cash register, valued at $800, two $10 bills, and a large sum of cash in a ditch near Swinney's car.

The register and money, Madison said, were taken from Nancy's Sweet Shop earlier in the night. The rear door of the store had been broken into.

Swinney was taken to the city jail, where he is being held.

The man is under presentencing investigation by the probation and parole board following his guilty plea in circuit court last week to a July burglary at Jarvis Motor Company.

ADVICE FROM THE HEADMASTER

Donald Barr, Headmaster of Manhattan's prestigious Dalton School, nas written a new book, Who Pushed Humpty Dumpty? Dilemmas in American Education, in which he offers excellent observations about children and their education.

On Student Radicals: "I believe that unearned approval in childhood is the source of three traits common among the student radicals: 1) They are far less argumentative than young radicals used to be. Arguing takes listening. 2) They read surprisingly little, although they know of a great many books. 3) They lack humor. Humor takes humility. A sense of humor is based on seeing and accepting human nature as stumbling, pretentious, and forever bedeviled. When I hear boys and girls call their parents 'hypocrites' (a favorite word), I know I am looking at humorless — and therefore dangerous — children."

On Parents : 'The rules of parenthood are simple enough: Be an adult and enjoy being an adult. Do not permit what you do not soberly approve. Set limits and see that they are kept. When should a parent turn over authority to the child? When the child stops reaching for authority and reaches for responsbiility."

On Discipline: "Few of us like to think about discipline. To the modern liberal mind, the word has an almost pornographic sound. But discipline is necessary to freedom. Though discipline and freedom seem antithetical, each without the other destroy itself. In painting, craft without imagination is sterile, and imagination with out craft aborts to its image ... In government order without dissent stagnates, and rebellion without law makes chaos, and both are despotic."

On the Underachiever: "The method of forestalling underachievement is to hold before the child at all times the allure and satisfaction of competence."

On Sex: "The community has a stake in one's interpersonal relations, because it is a fabric woven of such relations. The adolescent must not be allowed to argue that he can do what he wants with his own body. His body is not his alone, since he owes something to the phylogeny that has endowed it and to the society that has arranged for its protection and nourishment." Barr criticizes that form of sex education which is too heavy on biology, too light on understanding.

NO TRICKS

When former President Harry Truman learned of the food shortages in many parts of the world after World War II, he turned to former President Herbert Hoover as the American with most experience in dealing with such problems.

Among the things Mr. Hoover recommended was the establishment within the United Nations of a special organization to focus attention on the needs of children. That organization became the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Today UNICEF helps the 900 million children who live in underdeveloped nations to get better health, nutrition and education.

It depends largely upon voluntary contributions. This Halloweeen again, some children will be asking your help in the form of coins to support UNICEF instead of treats for themselves. It is a worthy cause.

DID KUNSTLER WRECK
ATTICA NEGOTIATIONS?

As the facts begin to come out on the Attica prison riot, revolutionary lawyer William Kunstler was accused by a fellow negotiator last week of sabotaging the Attica negotiations by inflaming inmates to the point where they were making impossible demands. The charge was made by David Anderson, a black school official from Rochester who spent 17 hours inside Attica as an inmate-invited negotiator. In a copyrighted interview with the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, Anderson said that until Kunstler showed up negotiations were proceeding well.

The amnesty issue was not considered important, Anderson recalled. The inmates gave a kind of fatalistic acceptance they wouldn't get it. They weren't trying to get out of there, they just wanted to improve things inside the prison.

Anderson was certain that agreement was near. "I felt pretty optimistic, everyone felt pretty good -- we had the confidence of the inmates." Then the hard-line Kunstler arrived on the scene and wrecked any chance for a peaceful solution. "He heightened their expectation about getting amnesty. It picked up and put the leadership we had been dealing with in a precarious position. The leadership began to spread out.

"After he heightened their expectation about the amnesty, the emotion and noise in the yard was raised. What had been a list of 15 proposals spread out to more than 30 demands."

When Anderson left Attica at four in the morning on Saturday he was "very worried." Kunstler, he claimed had prevented settlement, and "I knew we had failed in keeping it calm."

Note: In Washington, Rep. Louis Wyman (R-N.H.) introduced a resolution urging the American and New York Bar Associations to disbar Kunstler for his incredible attack on Gov. Rockefeller. Wyman, a former state attorney general, said: "Atty. Kunstler's characterization of Gov. Rockefeller as a 'murderer,' his statement that if he had a gun in his hand and near Rockefeller he would have been tempted to empty all of it, his continuing purveyance of hatred and incitation to violence is incompatible with membership in good standing of a Bar Association worthy of the name."

HOMOSEXUALITY AND THE CHURCHES

"If a man also lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death." This Old Testament View (Leviticus 20:13) toward homosexuality has softened to the point where many consider it to be at worst an illness deserving not condemnation but medical treatment. Even the churches, once united in their stand on the immorality of homosexuality, are taking a new look at the problem.

This attitude will be in evidence when the Council on Religion and the Homosexual holds its 6th symposium in San Francisco on Friday, Oct. 29. The Council's objective is "to promote a continuing dialogue between gay people and the heterosexual world." To this end, the 25-40 teachers, lawyers, social workers, doctors and clergyment expected to attend the three-day conference will meet in small groups to consider the problems -- personal, religious and political -- facing the homosexual in the 1970s. There will be panel discussions with homosexuals and visits to the gay bars, restaurants and homes.

To date, only two national denominations - the Lutheran Church and the Unitarian Universalist Association -- have publicly endorsed the homosexual's right to equal employment, housing and freedom from police harassment. Rev. Robert W. Wood, pastor of the United Church of Christ in Newark, N.J., has charged that many churches tell the homosexual: "You can come and worship here provided you can pass for heterosexual." Many homosexuals are no longer willing to abide by such regulations and are establishing their own churches. In 1968, Troy Perry, a homosexual minister, founded the Metropolitan Community Church in Los Angeles, the first congregation in the nation for homosexuals. In September 1970 the nation's newest denomination, the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches, was set up to coordinate the activities of such churches.

This religious assertiveness is one aspect of the new homosexual militancy. The National Institute of Mental Health has estimated that there are about four million American men and women who consider themselves homosexual. Some homosexual organizations claim the number is as high as 30 million. Increasing numbers of these men and women are demanding the elimination of criminal penalties for homosexual acts in private between consenting adults. Thus far, four states -- Illinois, Connecticut, Colorado and Idaho -- have passed such laws.

In the 20-year period, F.Y. 1950-70, the number of states having general sales taxes increased by 55 percent, from 29 to 45. Total collections from this levy rose from $1.7 to $14.1 billion, an increase of more than 700 percent.

HOW TO BALANCE
THE BUDGET

We have been thinking of ways to induce President Nixon and members of Congress to stop running up huge federal deficits.

Mere words haven't even slowed the spending in Washington. The deficit last year was $23 billion. This year it is estimated it will be $27 billion.

There is too much apathy to organize another Boston Tea Party.

Besides, it isn't considered good form or the ecological thing to do—our harbors already being the recipients of too many other pollutants without adding huge amounts of tea.

Then the idea came to us. It was so simple and direct we were surprised that no one else had proposed it.

Why not require the President and each member of the House and Senate to pay a one cent penalty for each million dollars that the federal budget goes into deficit each year.

For example, if the federal deficit for fiscal 1972 does reach $27,000,000,000, the total penalty would be $2,700,000. This would be divided equally among all members of Congress and the President.

By our figures, the penalty for every member of the House and Senate and the President would be $5,037.31. Now that isn't a huge amount in relation to the $27,000,000,000 but if they each had to pay $5,037.31 at the end of the year for going this far into the red, we feel reasonably confident the budget would not only be balanced the next year, but show a sizable surplus.

There's only one hitch to this idea. It probably would have to be approved by Congress and President Nixon. It might be difficult to get their support.

WHO IS
CHARLES KOEN?

Those who eat regularly and well have always found it difficult to fathom those who fast as a form of social protest. The usual assessment is that fasting is an undertaking that appeals to the deranged, or, perhaps, to saints—a judgment, likely as not, that is a function of distance: Those who fast close to home are deranged; those who fast abroad are saints.

How then are we to understand a young man, a black man, who is now fasting in St. Louis? It has been more than 40 days since Charles Koen went on a water-only diet, and though his body is weakened by the loss of almost 60 pounds, he continues to refuse food even though he has been taken to a hospital from the City Workhouse where he was serving a six-month sentence for assaulting a policeman. He is fasting because he claims he is innocent.

There are some, including many in positions of authority, who would contend that Charles Koen is nothing but a trouble-maker, an outside agitator, a man whose approach to problems does more harm than good, a fanatic. There are others, however, who see him as a dedicated and articulate militant who has turned up everywhere from Kinloch to Cairo in recent years in an attempt to rally blacks against the poverty and oppression that he believes characterizes their lives in a society where The Man is white and well-off.

By persisting in his fast, Charles Koen has forced the state, which he claims is trying to silence him, to order that he be fed intravenously, if necessary, to keep him alive. Reports from the hospital are that he intends to resist forced feeding. It is a remarkable demonstration of will, whoever and whatever Charles Koen really is, as a man, or as a symbol of protest.

GLAD HE'S OUT
OF RACE FOR GOVERNOR

We're glad Congressman Richard Ichord decided to stay out of the race for the Democratic nomination...

Not because we don't like or respect him...

But because we believe he is more valuable to Missourians and the nation as a forcible, progressive Congressman than he would be as a Governor...even if there was any guarantee he could be nominated and elected.

Dick Ichord has registered an outstanding performance as a Congressman. We need more of his kind and need to keep him there.

In addition to that, there are already too many candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Missouri. Only one can win, and it might or might not have been Ichord if he had run. If he had lost, Missouri would have been deprived of his fine services as either Congressman or Governor.

Again, we think he made the best decision for Missourians, and probably for himself.

DISMISS KISSINGER

Henry A. Kissinger has only an appointive office and he is not subject to questioning by committees of the Congress as are Cabinet officers. But what Kissinger says goes in the dictation of U.S. foreign policy and national security matters. Twenty-one years ago Kissinger achieved power and influence during the second year of Truman's elected term. He retains that power whether Democrats or Republicans are in the White House and now he is at his peak, arranging trips to Red China and Russia for the President of the U.S. which makes the U.S. appear to be surrendering to communist butchers. Republic USA needs no shadowy, unchallengeable figure behind the scenes. In fact, our Republic cannot survive under such conditions. Scholars have noted Kissinger's copying of the career of the shadowy Austrian historical figure, Klemens Metternich, in achieving great power during the 19th Century. Metternich virtually dictated world foreign policy then. Kissinger strives to emulate him and already dictates U.S. foreign policy.

The finest minds of our Republic should busy themselves with determining Kissinger's qualifications to dictate U.S. and world policy. Lawyers, judges, retired military experts and all patriots can inquire into the background of any powerful figure whose activities are so little known. Secret diplomacy after World War I and after World War II practically ruined western civilization and left Republic USA vulnerable and made the communist take-over of more than a billion people almost inevitable.

We had Colonel House behind the scenes with President Woodrow Wilson and Alger Hiss and worse with another President of the U.S. It does not require traitors to destroy our Republic, it only requires men who are not strongly FOR our RepublicAs George Washington said at a crucial hour in the War for Independence, "Put only Americans on guard tonight."

Inside Labor

Yablonski Killer's Confession: Murder trials starting; Hysteria May prolong strike of coaldiggers browning out much of nation

WASHINGTON: A series of murder trials in a small Pennsylvania town set to go before the county judge the morning of Nov. 1, will spurt emotion across coal mine patches in 20 states like lava from Mauna Loa in heat.

These will be the trials of five persons accused of killing the now ghoulishly famous Yablonskis. Since there is a loyal cult dedicated to proving that the United Mine Workers (UMW), John L. Lewis's bequest to America, was in some way responsible for the Yablonski deaths, there will be rumbles in the coal fields, chain-reaction efforts to whip up the current 80,000-man strike, so that it runs into the second anniversity of the late coal union officials' killing. This means New Year's Eve.

Bluntly, this could cripple the nation, throw hundreds of thousands out of jobs, slow down coke-eating steel mills and, worst of all --begin to brown out whole cities as coal-burning electric power stations gasp for fuel.

President Tony Boyle of the UMW, already beleaguered and besieged by some six court actions reaching into the Supreme Court, told me that "it will take only another couple of weeks before the cities start browning out. Take my word. This strike can take a long time."

And that's without the impact of the rank and file and the band that calls itself Miners for Democracy, which is demanding one of the costliest coal contracts in industrial history.

For the moment in this context the issues that forced the breach between the miners union and the soft industry, led by a group of progressive industrialists, are not vital here. There is a strike. Boyle is ready to begin paying out some $7.5 million a week in strike relief. The issue therefore is the avoidance of provocation by angry units within the union which would sow choas into the mine pits.

This nation's economic recovery is now in the idle hands of the coal diggers. If they continue to paralyze the pits, they paralyze the country. There just is not enough coal above ground despite confident reports. There seem to be no up-to-the-minute figures on reserves either in the Federal Power Commission or the Office of Emergency Preparedness. Coal operator's spokesmen tell me that in a week the power industry will have to begin "trucking" which means transfering stockpiles from powerhouse to powerhouse. Which in a month will add up to a creeping brownout of megalopolises.

Reportedly there is a 75-day supply on hand. But that's an old figure. It doesn't consider the strike which hit the coal fields Oct. 1.

So any extension would hit the power gut of the nation--anywhere from mass transportation to isolated farms.

Left to themselvess Tony Boyle and the bituminous industry's negotiators, long-experienced men such as Joe Moody and Heath Larry (of U.S. Steel) will work out a wage increase, a hike in royalties for the pension and welfare fund which has paid out over $3 billion in 24 years, and there will be some machinery to increase production and punish wildcat strikers.

But if the murder trials are exploited out in the patches, this nation could well go powerless. So let's look at the murders. One of the prisoners, Claude Vealery, has confessed. I've read the 15-page confession of the man whom the FBI caught about two weeks after discovery of the bodies in the early days of 1970.

Examined word by word, the confession indicated that during the 1969 election, when the slain Jock Yablonski was battering the Boyle leadership during the hard -hitting campaign, the dead man did not fear for his life. He did not cover his tracks. He did not hide plans or itinerary. Nor did his family. Nor did they hesitate to talk to strangers, and tell them accurately of Yablonski's whereabouts.

These are not the marks of people in fear. Therefore it can be assumed that Yablonski did not worry about himself any more than any man high in a union, deep in partisan national politics or active in his community.

Look at the record: Vealey, the confessed killer, says in the document that he, sometimes alone, sometimes with two others he implicates, had free access either to the Yablonski home or to the dead man or his family. On page two of the confession he says that in October 1969 he and two others drove to Clarksville, Pa., where they found the Yablonski residence unlocked. They went in and "cased" it.

Then they called the home later and were told Yablonski was out of town compaigning. Two days later they went to Washington, telephoned his office and were told he was staying with his son Joseph. They drove to Joseph's home and spoke to the son pretending to seek employment. Joseph told them that his father was in Sorenton, Pa. Later they again telephoned the Yablonski home and spoke to Mrs. Yablonski who told them Jock was en route home. Then in a later call she said he had changed his mind.

They called again in a few days and were told he was speaking in Beckley, W. Va., and they "cased" him there.

On Dec. 8, or so, 1969, they drove to the Yablonski home. He came to the door, talked with them framed in the doorway. Vealey could have killed him then for he was armed with a chrome-plated Smith & Wesson .36 caliber revolver. Another accused killer had a .25 caliber automatic.

Yablonski told them where they could find work, mine so and so. And on the night of the murder the residence's inner doors were not locked. Yet Yablonski followers ignore all this. There is a mystery man. He is known as "Tony." He is the killers' paymaster.

But until he's caught, this nation should not get caught up in the backlash of intra-union politics, emotion, understandable sorrow and chaos.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Would it pay society to pay students for behaving well in school rather than poorly?

Instead of punishing students for bad behavior, Dr. Edward T. Ladd, an Emory University educator, suggests rewarding them with a salary of $10 or so a month for good behavior. He believes money for such a pioneering project might come initially from foundations.

We swat many insects and feel superior to them, but they can do many things we cannot. For example, the long, slenderbodied dragonfly has wings thinner than fine paper, but it can fly at a speed of 40 miles an hour.

It has been said that a committee can never accomplish anything worthwhile. But it was a committee of religious scholars in the 17th century which produced the King James' translation of the Bible, still regarded by millions as the greatest in the English language.

America isn't exactly winning its battle against being engulfed by our own debris of living. Each of us now generates an average of six pounds of garbage each day. That's twice as much per person as we did 50 years ago.

If you want to lose weight and the doctor says your heart is healthy, tennis can be one of your best forms of exercise. It can use up more than 10 times as much energy as you'd expend plodding after a golf ball.

Quotable notables: "A man with Christ in his heart can outsmart all others."—Ruth McKenney.

Jingle, jingle: U.S. coins vary in popularity throughout the nation. Silver dollars have practically become a symbol of the free-weeling West, particulary in Las Vegas. Nickels, for some reason, are favored in Baltimore, and quarters in New York State. Pennies have lost their status so much that if you see anyone bend over to retrieve a dropped one, you automatically assume he's over 40 years old and sentimentally remembers when the Lincoln onecent piece was the chief prize and financial reward of childhood.

Worth remembering: "The young man who thought the world owed him a living becomes the old man who blames the world for his failure."

Exit lines: The dying words of Charlemagne were, "Lord, into thy hands I commit my spirit." Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, reportedly said, "I have had wealth, rank and power; but if these were all I had, how wretched I should be:" Robert Burns murmured, "Don't let the awkward squad fire over my grave." Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Both President Nixon and Vice President Agnew have paid high tribute to a notorious anti-Jewish editor in Pittsburgh.

Their effusive accolades were published by the proud editor, Geno Szebedinsky, in the same newspaper in which he touched such scandalously anti-Semitic tracts as the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion" and the "Myth of Six Million."

On the front page, Szebedinsky published a letter from President Nixon declaring: "Your distinguished career as editor and publisher is well known to me. I am proud to join your friends and admirers in their tribute to the enviable reputation you have earned, and to the high standards you have perpetuated..."

Nixon praised Szebedinsky for "four decades of . . . unfailing dedication to the cause of freedom and human dignity and justice" and added that the anti-Semite was "deeply appreciated by countless readers within the Hungarian community and throughout the country."

This ringing praise was echoed by Agnew who said Szebedinsky's "hard work and dedication are fine examples for others to follow." Agnew's letter was also printed on page one.

On page seven Szebedinsky urged upon his readers an assortment of anti-Jewish literature, including Henry Ford's venemous "The International Jew," which the old car maker later repudiated, the "Protocols and three books by the late Lajos Marschalko, a notorious Nazi who lauded the Nazi butchers of Auschwitz.

INCIMMINATING WORDS

In earlier editions, Szebedinsky printed other anti-Jewish diatribes. A front-page article on Oct. 31, 1969, for example, charges that Jews "put to death thousands of the best Hungarians or simply murdered them."

And in the same edition, Szebedinsky's paper claimed: "The Talmudic way of thinking reigns with the sign of revenge, celebrating orgies of lies, fraud, and self- deception."

Last March 26, Szebedinsky advised his readers that anti-Semitism is really a result of "Jewry, which is living and gasping unquenchably for revenge." Anyone believing the Nazis killed six million Jews, he also printed, is brainwashed.

After Szebedinsky published the Nixon and Agnew letters to President last May, the World Federation of Hungarian Jews charged that Szebedinsky once wore the uniform of the SS in World War II.

The accusation was contained in stinging letters to President Nixon and to Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., himself a Jew. The Nixon-Agnew letters, complained the Federation, were "deeply offending to the victims of Nazi barbarism."

The Federation told us the President did not reply. We checked the extensive but incomplete Archieves files of SS officers, and found no record of Szebedinsky or a second name he used in Hungary, Janos Hortobagyi.

Szebedinsky, in two talks with us from Pittsburgh, confirmed that he served as an officer in the Hungarian army on the side of the Nazis but forcefully denied he was in the SS. "The only SS I am in," he said, " is Social Security."

SZEBEDINSKY AND NIXON

Szebedinsky said he met the President only once eight years ago and didn't know Agnew at all. Szebedinsky admitted, when pressed, he knew the late Lajos Marschalko and has printed some of his articles.

Explained Szebedinsky: "Marschalko was a Nazi newspaperman. He came to America and the immigration officers didn't want to let him in. But he was never a killer, really a good fellow, a good drinker and he liked the girls."

On the day-in, day-out stream of anti-Jewish matter he publishes, he claimed he attacked only "Jewish Communists." "Never, never, never in my whole life have I ever thought of anti-Semitism," he said. "Who do you believe, these nice big organizations, or me, a poor newspaperman?"

Footnote: We recently revealed that Dr. Joseph Pauco, who was Hitler's chief troubadour in Slovakia in World War II, was a key advisor to the Republican party on Slovak-American affairs. Pauco denied the charges, and for two weeks the GOP backed him up. But the clamor against Pauco grew, bulwarked by the Anti-Defamation League which dug from its own massive files still more facts on Pauco's Nazi ties. Finally, on October 6, Pauco offered his resignation and GOP National Chairman Bob Dole ratified it almost before the ink was dry. The action was taken as we were preparing a second article on the dapper Pauco, reporting how Pauco had called brave Jews "wild beasts" who "will not escape their well- deserved punishment." The respected Czechoslovakian author, the late Dr. Joseph Lettich, charged Pauco served on a special tribunal that reviewed the sentences of courageous Jewish and Slovakian insurgents who fought against Hitler.

Rumsfeld Says Wage-Price Panel Unlikely To Handle Each Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the Cost of Living Council says it "would be an incredible burden" for the Pay Board and Price Commission to rule on every requested salary or price hike during Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic stabilization program.

Instead, says director Donald Rumsfeld, he expects the panels to strike a balance between a case-by-case approach and the present all-encompassing wage-price freeze.

Rumsfeld stressed in an Associated Press interview that he did not want to preempt any of the board's options.

"...We have to recognize that the President created the Pay Board and Price Commission to make the decisions," Rumsfeld said. "And I think this is worth underlining. Those who have suggested that things are confusing because there's not a government edict on every aspect of this are wrong.

"The choice the President made was to have a process that would involve the Board and the Commission and they would make those kinds of judgments in an orderly way."

Meanwhile, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, called for an outright ban on corporate mergers during Nixon's Phase 2.

Many of the nation's price problems "stem directly from the concentration of economic power in certain industries," Patman maintained Sunday.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson predicted the wage and price boards will focus on big industries such as the nation's 500 largest corporations.

Hodgson, interviewed on WRC television in Washington Sunday, said he expects the boards to proceed case-by-case with no fixed limits for acceptable wage-and-price increases.

In his interview Rumsfeld acknowledged that there have been complaints from the business community that businessmen haven't been told precisely how Phase 2 will affect their pricing policies.

"...They will know in good time," Rumsfeld said. "The kind of information that the private sector needs to comply ... will certainly be forthcoming."

Rumsfeld, a former congressman who is retaining his title as counselor to the President while heading the COLC,was asked, "Do you think it would be a lot clearer if a general wage standard were put out, rather than developing specific case-by-case standards?"

"If I said yes," he responded, "someone conceivably could take that and go to the Pay Board or Price Commission and say, 'This is what the COLC director thinks.' It is not helpful for the government to seemingly pre-empt options for the members by setting a narrow backdrop for their deliberations."

"A freeze is perfectly clear and simple," he added. " It is also unfair—it is inequitable by definition. A total case-by-case approach would theoretically be better tailored to personal situations. It would be an incredible burden for the Pay Board and the Price Commission to have to make those kinds of judgments for every single economic activity in this country. Now somewhere in between is where they are going to come out ...."

On the ABC-TV program "Issues and Answers" Sunday, Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said he believes the Pay Board would permit already-negotiated pay hikes for union workers to go into effect retroactively when Phase 1 ends Nov. 13. Woodcock is one of five labor members on the 15member Pay Board.

Rumsfeld agreed the board has the power to allow workers to collect wage increases retroactively, but he would not predict what the tri-partite panel might do.

In New York, The New York Times reported retailers have illegally increased the price of meat as much as 10 cents a pound since the Aug. 15 declaration of a freeze.

The newspaper said in today's editions that a state Department of Agriculture report showed increases on seven cuts of meat out of 27 examined in a 10-week study.

Israeli Quints Doing Fine

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's first quintuplets are "doing fine and are out of danger," a spokesman at Hadassah Hospital reported today more than 48 hours after the birth of three girls and two boys to Mrs. Yitzhak Berman.

The 22-year-old mother, a kindergarten teacher, also was reported in good condition.

The father, who is 24, owns a shop where he makes flags and embroidered items.

The babies were born Saturday. Their weights ranged from 1 pound, 8 ounces to 2 pounds, 14 ounces.

The parents have been married for three years and have no other children. Mrs. Berman had been taking a fertility drug and had known she would have a multiple birth since her third month of pregnancy.

Armstrong says it's believed a portion of Kodiak Island has risen about two feet since the quake. He's asked persons who might have information on the possible rise to step forward with any facts they may have.

Bid To Oust Taiwan Still Neck And Neck

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomats said the race was still neck and neck today as the General Assembly neared a vote on whether to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations. Some said it might end in a tie.

The key issue was an American resolution to make the ouster an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

"We think we're going to win that vote," said a spokesman for the U.S. delegation. One diplomat friendly to the American casue figured they had a 58-57 or 59-57 advantage with more favorable votes possible.

However, another friendly diplomat calculated the vote at 59-58 against the resolution or a 58-58 tie. Other assessments were that from 58 to 61 delegations were ready to vote against it and only from 56 to 58 were for it.

Should there be a tie, a second vote would be taken within 48 hours. If the tie persisted, the resolution would fail.

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia was said to hope the vote could come late today. But key delegations believed the voting would start Tuesday.

The "important question" resolution was crucial because the Albanian resolution to seat the Chinese Communists and oust the Nationalists is certain to get a majority in the Assembly but not a two-thirds majority.

The Albanian resolution was entitled to be voted on first because it was submitted first. But the United States had a motion pending to give its resolution priority.

The United States was also pushing a "dual representation" resolution to offer both the Communists and the Nationalists seats in the Assembly and offer the Communists the Chinese seat on the Security Council.

Peking has said repeatedly that they would have nothing to do with the United Nations as long as the Nationalists remain in it. Their supporters in the world organization say they mean it, but the Americns say there is no way to tell without trying them out.

The United States made one gain Sunday when officials in Rome said Italy would vote for the Albanian resolution but would abstain from the vote on the important question resolution. Many observers had believed Italy would vote against it.

Sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli Cabinet decided Sunday that Israel would vote for the U.S. resolution but this had been generally expected.

The 23 sponsors of the Albanian resolution planned a lastminute strategy session today to discuss whether, in case their resolution failed, a proposal should be put in to make the American dual representation resolution an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority.

Saudi Arabia has proposed amendments to the Albanian resolution to invite the Communists to represent mainland China and notify the Nationalists that tey represent only Taiwan. These appear to have no chance of passage.

Five Doctor Sons Honor Parents With Honorary Medical Degrees

NEW YORK (AP) — Five physician sons have paid tribute to their Italian immigrant parents by lovingly awarding them mock medical degrees at an elegant dinner dance.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Baratta is believed to be the first in the country with five sons all of whom became doctors, according to the American Medical Association.

"Pop has a litle more goodness than a lot of fathers," Michael Baratta, 43, the eldest son, told the gathering at the Pierre Hotel Sunday night.

"We all wanted to become doctors and he and Mom encouraged us every step of the way," he said. "We felt that to give them an honorary degree was the highest thing we could do."

In addition to Michael, an orthopedic surgeon in Canoga Park, Calif., the sons are Anthony, 42; Vincent, 39; and Ronald, 37, who are in joint practice in Lindenhurst, N.Y., and Frank, 33, a cardiologist in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Congratulatory telegrams from President Nixon, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe and a number of New York politicians were read aloud after a six-course meal featuring four wines and a French menu.

There were also awards from the state and county medical societies and the American Committee on Italian Migration. But the final tribute, which came as a surprise, brought tears to the Barattas.

That was when the sons presented their parents with the honorary degree in medicine, which proclaimed them "doctors."

Vincent Baratta, a spry 70, told the 150 guests that he deserved no credit for his sons' accomplishments but was proud of their achievements.

"I had the good fortune to raise my sons when discipline was popular and accepted," said Baratta, a pharmacist in Lindenhurst who also lives part of the year in Fort Lauderdale.

"Oh, it's a wonderful night," said Carmela Baratta, 66, known to her friends as Millie. "My sons sent us a beautiful engraved invitation. "It's so beautiful we had it framed. It said they requested the pleasure of our company."

Manhunt Continues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A wounded gunman who has eluded police since Thursday afternoon made his presence known again Sunday when a St. Louis County man telephoned his wife and said he was the gunman's prisoner.

Authorities said John L. Dorrell, III, 30, called his wife about 4 p.m. at her home in Florissant, Mo. During the fiveminute call Dorrell talked with his wife and his mother Dorothy Dorrell, of Warrenton, Mo. They said he told them he was being treated well and "would be home sometime today."

Police failed in efforts to trace the call. All they had go go on was Dorrell's wife's statement she heard truck noises under her husband's voice.

Dorrell told his wife he was being held by James Leroy Cochran, 36, of St. Louis.

Cochran is named in federal complaints of kidnaping and armed robbery. The FBI has identified him as one of two men who took part in Thursday's robbery of a St. Louis savings and loan company.

A series of events unfolded after the robbery:

Police chased the two men in a car to Northwest High School.

The men abandoned the car and exchanged gunfire with police. One was captured after he was wounded. he was identified as Paul L. Lockhart, 45, of Leslie, Mo.

The second man, identified by police as Cochran, fled into the high school.

He used a teacher as a hostage to elude police, ran on to a nearby house and held the occupant and 13 other persons captive until Thursday evening.

Cochran forced the occupant of the house to drive him into southern Illinois Thursday night. He released the man—his second hostage—and drove off in his car.

The gunman did not surface again until Friday. Police spotted him at various times Friday night after he released a Boonville, Mo., woman—the third hostage. The woman said Cochran had driven her from Boonville to Kansas City, then wound his way back to St. Louis.

Ann Landers

Kindness Nets Boy $6,000 Inheritance

DearAnn Landers: Please, Ann, say something in your column about teachers who make family trees a classroom project. Our little niece came home yesterday with tears in her eyes. Marianne is my sister's child. She was born out of wedlock and we are raising her. Her mother is in California and her father's identity was never made known.

Although Marianne is only nine years old she knows that her mother was never married. We wanted to adopt her four years ago when we took her to live with us but her mother would not agree to it. On Marianne's record at school, her mother is listed as Miss Alice - - - -. I warned Alice tht this would be a problem, and she replied, "She'd better learn to live with it." When the teacher asked the children to draw their family tree, Marianne filled hers out as best she could. The boy across the aisle saw her tree and that started everyone else in the class to talking and laughing about it.

It is my suggestion that these days, when out-of-wedlock children are showing up in school more and more, the tree project should be abolished. Thanks for your help--if I get it.---Tarrytown, N. Y'

Dear R.N.Y.: You've got it. I've never been very excited about family trees. Too often they turn out an abundance of sap.

Dear Ann Landers: I was disappointed in your answer to the woman whose friend gave her daughter a box of dusting powder as a high school graduation gift---one she had received during a recent convalescence. You have often said in your column that a gift is what people want to give--and this time you responded with something about a "cheap streak."

I have learned not to knock the inexpensive gift. Last year in the office grab-bag-exchange at Christmas, I drew a little thing-a-ma-jig that looked like nothing. It was a small hook on the end of a string. Someone explained it was a zipper-pull. I thought it was a pretty crummy gift but said nothing and put it away when I reached home.

A few months later I fell and injured my arm. It was impossible to zip my dresses in the back. Then I remembered the zipper-pull. Ann, I wouldn't take $1,000 for that gadget. It turned out to be the most useful thing in the house. So please tell your readers not to be too hasty in their judgment of gifts. One never knows when that white elephant will turn out to be the best gift of all.---Indy

Dear In: In behalf of all the White-Elephant Givers in thenation I thank you. You've endeared yourself to them forever.

Dear Ann Landers: A neighbor of ours died recently. She was an elderly person, an eccentric, or to put it more bluntly, off her rocker. Our young son befriended her on a few occasions and although she expressed no thanks at the time it seems she did not forget his kindness. We were informed today that she left the boy $6,000 in her will. He is 14 years old, sensible, and has never been a problem to us. If he wanted to spend the money foolishly would he be free to do so? --Las Vegas

Dear L.V.: See a lawyer. He will tell you that a minor cannot spend an inheritance without the consent of his parents or legal guardian. (In some states the age of majority is 18 or 19, other states it's 21.)

Dance Group To Perform At N.M.

NEW MADRID--On Nov. 17, the Delta Community Concerts Association will present the first of four concerts scheduled during the 1971-72 season.

Ruth Page's "Invitation To The Dance" will be performed at the New Madrid high school Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Miss Page, discovered by the prima ballerina, Anna Pavlova, will narrate the program while four dance soloists from her Chicago company perform.

The repertory will be selected from classical presentations such as "The Nutcracker," "Don Quixote" and "Sleeping Beauty."

Miss Page choreographic talents will be demonstrated by excerpts from her ballets including "The Merry Widow," "Pygmalion," and "Improvisations."

BOYS TOWN CONCERT CHOIR of Boys Town, Neb., will present a program next Friday at 8 p.m. at the New Madrid high school auditorium.

New Madrid Only Town in State To Host Boys Town Concert Choir

NEW MADRID -- The Boys Town Choir of Boys Town, Nebraska, directed by Monsignor Francis P. Schmitt, will present a concert at 8 p.m. Friday at the New Madrid high school auditorium.

Their appearance at New Madrid, sponsored by the Rotary Club, is the only one in Missouri during the 26th annual national tour to 35 cities in the west and mid west.

J. Corbett Davis, general chairman, said today a capacity audience is expected to attend. A quota for patron ticket sales has been exceeded. "Sale of patron tickets has been the easiest job I've ever had," Davis said. Adult and student general admission tickets are available.

Ranging in age from 12 to 19 the choir travels in alternate years to theAtlantic and Pacific coasts.

The 35-voice concert choir is chosen on the basis of performance, seniority and good citizenship from among 200 in the vocal music department.

To be eligible for the concert group, the boys have to attend a full session of summer school to make up in advance the studies they will miss while on tour.

In addition, they have spent many hours mastering the repertoire.

Divided into three general classifications, the first part of the program consists of liturgical music by such composers as des Pres, Herman Schroeder and Brahms. The second portion is a group of compositions by contemporary composer, Ariel Ramirez. Music by modern composers, including Gershwin and Kodaly, is featured in the final group.

Selections and composers announced for the concert:

PartI: Come Again, Sweet Love by John Dowland, with instruments other than piano; Die Wollust in den Maien, by Johannes Brahms; Agnus Dei (Missa Psalmodica) by Herman Schroeder; Sanctus (Missa Pange Lingua) by Josquin des Pres; Two Carols, All this Time (English) by William Walton; A Litany by William Walton; and Brother Fire (Canticle to the Sun) by Seth Bingham.

Part II: Navidad Nuestra by Ariel Ramirez includes The Annunciation, The Pilgrimage, The Nativity, The Shepherds, The Three Kings and the The Flight with instruments other than piano.

Part III: Clap Yo Hands by George Gershwin; Liza by Gershwin; Spring by Theron Kirk; I Never Saw a Moor by Robert Muczynski; Himmelswalzer by Otto Siegl; Evening Song by Zoltan Kodaly; Shenandoah arranged by Gregg Smith; and Michie Banjo by Arnold Freed, with instruments other than piano.

Students in Home Ec IV class of Mrs. May Edwards will serve as hostesses at a reception following the concert.

The concert choir is scheduled to arrive Thursday afternoon at Sikeston by chartered bus and will stop at the Holiday Inn.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

O Lord, how great are thy works' and thy thoughts are very deep. Psalm 92:5

PRAYER: Father, we know men have found courage in the stars, triumph over sadness, and desolation in the blossoms of spring, and a promise of blessing in many a rain. Help us to become more aware of the beauty of nature that we so often take for granted. In the Galileans' name we pray. Amen.

What's The Law

Couple Wants Adopted Child

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Glenn and his wife were so far removed from religion that they didn't even know what church they were staying away from.

Consequently, when they decided to adopt a child and filed the appropriate papers in court for that purpose, they ran into a problem.

Not belonging to a church and not believing in a Supreme Being left them with no invisible means of support, which presented an impediment to the adoption.

"Church affiliations," Glenn was told, "indicates a person's good moral fitness to rear a child. And, a lack of such affiliation indicates a lacking in more than just the affiliation. What's more," he was told, "atheism has no future."

"Maybe not," conceded Glenn, "but my morals are as fine as any that can be found and maybe a lot better. I don't have to go to church to hear a moralogue. While others may believe in God, I believe in me."

IN YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you turn down the adoption because Glenn and his wife lacked a religious belief?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that adoptions are granted when they are in the best interests of the child and a sincere belief in a religion may be indicative of the moral fitness of the persons seeking to adopt. However, noted the judge, an adoption cannot be denied just because the prospective adoptive parents do not profess a religion or a belief in a Supreme Being.

In such a case, he pointed out, the question is still whether they are fit to adopt and, to answer that question, the court must probe their moral character aside from religion. And, if all is satisfactory, the adoption must be granted. (Based upon a 1971 New Jersey Supreme Court Decision).

CONSRVATIONISTS HUNTINGFOR TAX ON SOFT DRINKS

JEFFERSON CITY – The tiny offices of the Conservation Federation of Missouri have been humming with activity recently. Volunteers cheerfully stuff envelopes, check mailing lists and write letters. Hand-drawn posters decorate the walls and there is an air of optimism.

The object of the activity, and the optimism, is a statewide initiative petition campaign to impose a special tax on soft frinks which would be used exclusively for conservation. The campaign aims at placing the tax measure before the voters in the form of a constitutional amendment in the November, 1972, general election.

The drive is led by a group called the Citizens Committee for Conservation, and much of its leadership comes from the Conservation Federation, a group of sportmen's clubs organized to promote the establishment of the state Conservation Commission in 1936. Ted Scott, a Buffalo lawyer, is chairman of the drive.

To get on the ballot, the petitions must be signed by eight per cent of the total vote for governor in the last election in seven of the state's 10 congressional districts. This would total about 90,000 signatures, but leaders of the drive predict they will collect 150,000.

The amendment would impose a one-cent tax on soft drinks up to 16 ounces and another penny for each additional 16 ounces. The revenue from the tax would go to the Missouri Department of Conservation and would be controlled by the department, not the state legislature. Backers of the drive predict the tax would mean about $21 million in yearly revenue, about double the department's present budget of $11 million.

The revenue must be used for conservation projects and the Department of Conservation has prepared a plan, "Design for Conservation", that proposes specific programs to be financed by the tax. Included would be land acquisition and development, a greater emphasis on wildlife research and an expanded program directed at those who neither hunt nor fish.

The measure is needed, supporters say, because of the increased demand being placed on the state's natural areas. A growing population with increased leisure time has made it mandatory for the state to increase activity to insure availability of unspoiled recreation areas for future generations.

The tax on soft drinks was recommended in two separate studies, one by Arthur Betts, a financial consultant. The other by the University of Missouri School of Business and Public Administration. The studies point out a soft drink tax is broadly based, voluntary and not burdensome for the taxpayer and would produce the desired revenue.

The Department of Conservation now is financed almost entirely by hunter and fishermen and supporters of the tax say this has meant the commission has felt obligated to spend a major share of its revenue for fishing and hunting programs. Increased revenue from a broadened tax base would mean conservation programs benefitting more people.

The campaign has been endorsed by several state and national groups including the United Auto Workers, Sierra Club, American Association of University Women, Anglers of Missouri, American Rifle Asociation, Audobon Society and the Wildlife Management Institute. Campaign financing is by contribution, and several hunters' and conservation groups have donated money.

Opposition to the measure is led by bottlers who feel the proposed tax is discriminatory, taxing one industry to pay for what many people use. They also feel the tax would harm the soft drink industry in Missouri.

The bottlers have their own study to counter those of the amendment's supporters. Commissioned by the South Carolina Soft Drink Association and headed by a professor of economics at the University of South Carolina, the study points out that the tax is discriminatory and meets no criteria of "acceptable taxation." That is, the tax is not paid in proportion to public benefits received and is not levied on industries that enjoy relatively high levels of profit. The report also claims that the soft drink industry's growth in West Virginia has lagged far behind the national average since a soft drink tax was imposed there in 1951.

The bottlers also claim the tax would not yield the predicted $21 million in annual revenue. When similar taxes have been imposed in other states, soft drink sales have declined, the bottlers claim.

State Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, has joined the bottlers in opposing the tax. Schechter says the tax places an unfair burden on children who consume a high volume of soft drinks, is more than 2 1/2 times the present state tax on beer, and that a mineral severance tax would be a more equitable way of financing the program.

New Transportation Organization Formed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) – The old Missouri Good Roads and Streets Association was replaced Thursday with a broad based Missouri Transportation and Development Council.

The president of the old organization, Louis R. Hughes Jr. of Sedalia, became president of the new one.

A banker, Hughes said modern day transportation is "a bigger problem than just roads and streets" and the new council "will do all it can to promote the economic welfare of this state."

The new council adopted as its purpose "to promote public interest and take action relative to programs of a total transportation system and associated development activities which will adequately and equitable service all phases of the urban, agricultural commercial, industrial and recreational needs of the state and to provide for the betterment, convenience and safety of its citizens; to collect and desseminate the unbiased facts regarding legislation, administration, finance, construction, maintenance and service in the best interests of the people of the state of Missouri."

Leaders of the new organization have expressed opposition to any diversion of highway user funds to any non - highway purposes but they shied away from putting that in the by laws at this time.

The organization has not taken a stand on Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' proposed $700 million bond issue plan for highways, mass transit and airport construction. Hughes said he personally would have to know more about the proposal before he could express himself.

Besides Hughes the officers are:

Vice -presidents – Francis Piepmeier of Sverdrup and Parcel, St. Louis; Carl Penzel of Jackson, Penzel Construction Co.; Dale Arn of Jefferson City, Fabick & Co.; Jay Warner of Kansas City, R. B. Jones and sons, Insurance.

The treasurer is Dwight Wheelen of Montgomery City, McClain Lime Quarry; Secretary, James E. Kelly of Independence, Editor of Midwest Contractor, and legal counsel, Lowell McCuskey of Linn.

Conference For Youth Held At SEMO State

CAPE GIRARDEAU – The White House Conference for Youth for District VI comprising Stoddard, Dunklin, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Perry, Madison, Cape Girardeau, Scott, Mississippi, St. Francis, and Ste. Genevieve counties met Thursday in the Memorial Ballroom of Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

Attending the meeting from Portageville high school were student council members Ann Grable, representative of the National Honor Society; Lisa Hoxworth of the Future Nurses Club; Kathy Corgan of the Pep Club; Ann Hillis of the Future Homemakers of America; Kaye Grable of the French Club; and Mary Angela Estes, secretary - treasurer of the Student Council.

They were accompanied by Mrs. Grayce Alexander, high school counselor and faculty advisor of the student council.

Ann Grable and Mrs. Alexander were named as co - chairmen in charge of publicity for New Madrid county.

Another workshop will be held at the college on November 11. Jerline Dossett, Ph. D. of Southeast Missouri State College, is Region VI Chairman.

Dexter Unit To Conduct Firing

DEXTER – The 1221st Transportation Company (Light Truck), a Missouri Army National Guard unit from Dexter, will conduct weapons firing at the Wappapello Training Area on the weekend of Nov. 6-7.

Firing will begin about 8 a.m. and will end about 5 p.m. on both days.

The firing is being conducted to meet annual qualification and familiarization requirements.

The Wappapello Training Area is located on Route T in the vicinity of Little Brushy Church and the public is requested to observe warning signs posted at the training area.

Waste Engineer Appointed

MALDEN – Ronald J. Dirks, Malden, chairman of the personnel committee with the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, announces the employment of Jay E. Waggoner, Jr. as Solid Waste Engineer.

Waggoner will be working primarily under the solid waste program for a six-county area. Holding a master of science in environmental and planning engineering, he will provide assistance in developing a composed study in collection, storage, disposal and recycling of solid waste matter.

Philip Shelton, executive director of the commission, says emphasis will be directed toward recycling paper, glass, cardboard and the metal of useless automobiles.

During attendance at the University of Missouri, Rolla, Waggoner was awarded outstanding Civil Engineering Senior by the Mid - Missouri section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and the Curator's Award for two years. Waggoner was a member of Tau Beta Pi,, National Engineering Honor Society and National Civil Engineering Honor Society.

Waggoner will make his home in Malden.

Morgan To Coordinate State Courses

CAPE GIRARDEAU – Dr. Willard J. Morgan, director of school services at Southeast Missouri State College, has assumed the task of arranging and coordinating both undergraduate and graduate extension courses offered by the college, it was announced today.

The new responsibility ties in with Dr. Morgan's other duties as school services director. These, in general, are to make the facilities and resources of Southeast Missouri State available to schools in its service area.

An extension course is any class not offered on the Southeast Missouri State campus in Cape Girardeau, and currently the college has 18 in operation throughout its service area, Dr. Morgan said.

Purpose of the extension offerings, Dr. Morgan said, is to provide college opportunities to as many persons as possible in the college district. He pointed out that an extension class may be organized at any time during the year and does not have to coincide with the dates of the college's regular semesters.

"We will try to be as flexible as possible and to fulfill the needs of the district," Dr. Morgan said.

Normally, Dr. Morgan commented, at least 17 students must enroll for an extension course for it to materialize. The cost is $17 per semester hour. All extension instructors are approved by Southeast Missouri State.

Cities where extension courses are currently under way are Portageville, Malden, Dexter, Flat River, Sikeston, St. Louis, Cruise, Bloomfield, Poplar Bluff and Hillsboro.

Anyone interested in bringing an extension class to his home area should contact Dr. Morgan at the college.

Mayor Blames Looting On Fringe Element

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) – Mayor Peter F. Flaherty said that a "fringe element" was responsible for "some looting" which occurred in downtown Pittsburgh last Sunday when an estimated 100,000 persons jammed the area after the Pirates had won the World Series.

He said he stimates that about 95 per cent of those who got downtown through a massive traffic jam were there only to welcome the Pirates. And he said he felt there was an "overemphasis on the violence" that night by the news media.

"There was no serious crime that took place in the downtown area, there were no serious injuries, there were no rapes and there were no shootings," Flaherty told interviewer Paul Cunningham on NBC's Today show.

"We did have damages," Flaherty added, "It was mostly broken store windows."

Flaherty's comments came during a discussion of media coverage of the events of Oct. 17.

Others involved in the discussion, which originated at Television Station WIIC here, were station reporter Eleanor Schano, who was in the downtown area that night; Judy Nees, a resident who was there, and Nelson Briles, pitcher for the Pirates who entered the city in a motorcade after the team flew back here from Baltimore.

"I admit there was some looting," Flaherty said. "Most of the damage was to downtown stores. We haven't had any report of more than $2,000 damage to any one store."

Mrs. Nees said she felt reports of violence downtown were "overexaggerated." She said she had taken her young son to the city to see the Pirates and that she experienced no trouble.

"We saw the people happy, gay. I saw happy fellows who were totally immersed in water from a fire hydrant they had opened."

Thieves Raid Pinball Machine

LILBOURN – Thieves broke into Lilbourn Billiards Tuesday night or Wednesday morning and took change from a pinball machine.

City Marshal Fred Roe said entry was gained through the front door.

Amount of money in the machine was not determined.

Q—Where do historians believe the game of croquet originated?

A—In France, where it was known as "paille-maille," and later imported into England as "pall-mall." It was played as early as the 1600s in both countries.

Chiefs Stop Skins

It took a full - scale Indian war to stop the rampaging Redskins and, when the dust settled, it was -- quite naturally -- the Chiefs who subdued the tribe.

The Washington Redskins went into Sunday's National Football League action as the only undefeated team and appeared they.d stay that way as they carried a 17-6 lead into the second half against Kansas City.

But 30 minutes and three Len Dawson touchdown passes later, the Chiefs were whooping it up with a 27-20 victory.

In Sunday's other games, Chicago defeated Detroit 28-23, Miami beat the New York Jets 30-14, Philadelphia whipped the New York Giants 23-7, Dallas demolished New England 44-21, Oakland edged Cincinnati 31-27, Atlanta dumped New Orleans 28-6, Los Angeles shelled Green Bay 30-13, Denver stunned Cleveland 27-0, San Francisco slapped St. Louis 26-14 and Pittsburgh turned back Houston 23-16.

In Saturday night's lone game, San Diego smothered Buffalo 20-3. And tonight, in a nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EDT) contest that looms as a brutal defensive collision, Baltimore is at Minnesota.

Dawson, who wound up completing 10 of 23 passes for 203 yards, began hitting with consistency in the second half. He hit his favorite receiver, Otis Taylor, with scoring strikes of 26 and 28 yards and found Elmo Wright with a 15 - yarder.

That wiped out the first - half heroics of Washington passer Billy Kilmer, who teamed with Charley Taylor on touchdown tosses of four an;36 yeards.

What would have been a day of rejoicing for the Bears became one of mourning for all of pro football as Lions wide receiver Chuck Hughes, a five - year veteran from Texas, collapsed on the field and died a short time later of what Detroit team physician Dr. Richard Thompson said was apparently a raptured major blood vessel.

Third - string quarterback Bobby Douglass directed the Chicago upset, throwing touchdowns of 54 and 15 yards, then plunging over from the one for the winning score.

"We can do this against anybody," Larry Csonka said after scoring two touchdowns and teaming with Jim Kiick to roll up a massive 258 yards on the ground in the Dolphins' romp over the Jets.

The Cowboys opened their new home, Texas Stadium, in grand style as Rober Staubach threw touchdowns of 35 and 28 yards to Bob Hayes and ran two yards for another score against the outgunned Patriots.

George Blanda, who made a habit of saving the Raiders last season, came off the bench against the Bengals to direct his teammates to two touchdowns and a come - from - behind victory.

Another sub quarterback, Dick Shiner of the Falcons, also sparkled as he passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third against the Saints.

Roman Gabriel was the Rams' star, passing for three touchdowns in their victory over the Packers while the Broncos held the Browns' potent ground game to a measly 36 yards in their upset romp.

Basketball Opens

PARMA -- Southeast Missouri's 1971-72 high school basketball season gets underway Monday night as action in the Parma junior varisty invitational basketball tournament tips off the campaign.

Top seeded Lilbourn collides with Campbell in the 6:30 p.m. opener. Matthews goes against Twin Rivers in the 8 p.m. nightcap.

Tournament action resumes Tuesday with second seeded Richland battling Risco at 6:30 p.m. and third rated Parma meeting Bernie at 8 p.m.

Semi final round action is slated Thursday with the finals scheduled Friday.

Bowling School

All adults in the Sikeston, Missouri area who are interested in working with young people in the American Junior Bowling Congress program are invited to attend a one -day certified coach - instructor school at Imperial Lanes Saturday.

The school will begin at 9:00 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. There is no cost involved. Conducting the school will be AJBC Field Representative Harry Tuma, Wheaton, Ill.

To qualify for certification as a certified coach - instructor, an individual must attend the class and pass a written examination given at the close of the day.

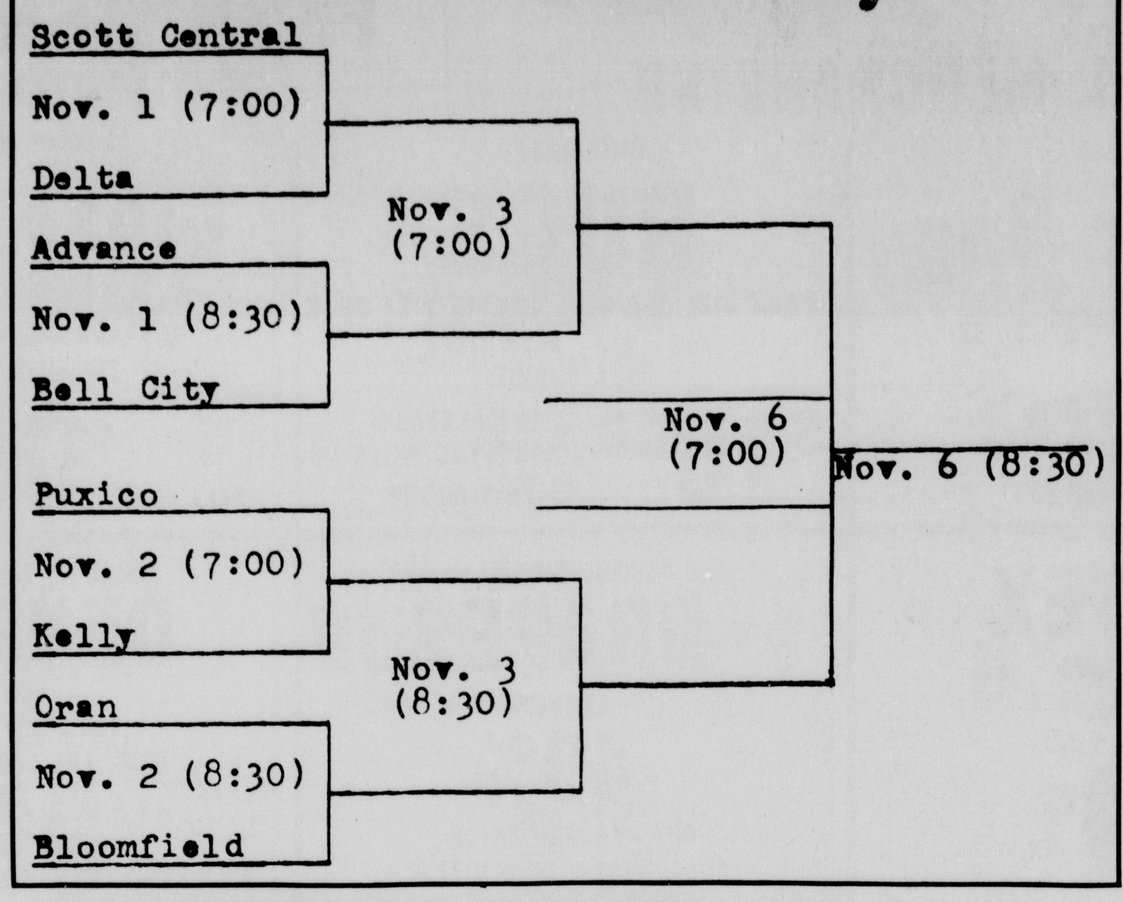

The school emphasizes mass teaching techniques with demonstration of stance, pushaway, footwork, arm swing, timing, release of the ball and follow - through. Stressed also are the mechanics of ball action, how to deliver a hook ball, speed of the ball, how to correct throwing of the backup ball, strike angles and spare bowling.

Major bowling faults, proper ball fit, bowling attire and etiquette are covered as well as a discussion of the AJBC program and its benefits with suggestions on how to promote, organize and conduct junior leagues.

The school is part of the AJBC service program and, along with the Certified Coach clinic, results in the training of more than 5000 adults each year by the AJBC staff.

Football Death

DETROIT (AP) — What does a football player say after a game in which one of his teammates collapsed and died? What can he say? Words were replaced by tears and bowed heads as the Detroit Lions filed solemnly from their dressing room Sunday after a 28-23 upset National Football League loss to the Chicago Bears.

Chuck Hughes was dead.

The likable, 28-year-old Lion wide receiver collapsed on the field with a minute left in the game and at 4:41 p.m., about an hour after the game, was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital.

Dr. Richard A. Thompson, one of two team physicians, said an autopsy would be performed today but added that cause of death was likely a ruptured vessel of the aorta, heart, or possibly the brain.

"He's dead, he's dead," muttered one the Lions as he walked sadly from the dressing room after hearing the news.

"I'm horrified and shocked. He was a great player and a great person," said Lions owner William Clay Ford, his voice quivering with grief, in a filmed interview shortly after the tragic announcement.

"Everyone was praying a miracle would happen and that he would pull through," he added.

Newmen were barred from the dressing room, where the Lions said a team prayer for Hughes and waited—hopefully, but pessimistically—for news from Henry Ford Hospital of his condition.

The game that so many men have chosen to make their prime occupation had claimed a victim. It was a stunning development. It was hard for everyone to believe, including those in the crowd of 54,419 who witnessed Hughes collapse but probably didn't learn of his death until listening to radio reports in their cars enroute home.

Hughes had replaced injured Larry Walton in the fourth quarter and caught a 32-yard pass from Greg Landry with 1:38 remaining. He was immediately sandwiched by Bob Jeter and Garry Lyle of the Bears. The next three plays of the desperation drives were incomplete Landry passes, and it was after the third that Hughes, heading for the huddle, clutched his chest and collapsed on the 15-yard line.

"He came back to the huddle and seemed okay," a spokesman quoted Landry as saying. "Nobody thought anything ot it."

A few crucial seconds passed before anyone realized the gravity of the injury, and Detroit officials rushed to his aid. He had been lying on his stomach but was quickly turned over, with Dr. Thompson pounding his chest in external massage while the other team physician, Dr. Edwin Guise, gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Also helping was Dr. Eugene Boyle, an anesthesiologist, who came out of the stands.

Hughes was put on a stretcher and taken to the hospital.

Underclassmen Star In SEMO State Win

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Underclassmen played key roles in Southeast Missouri State College's 20-13 homecoming football victory over Washburn university Saturday afternoon.

Sophomore John Gabrisch got the Indians on the scoreboard in the second quarter with an electrifying 95 - yard kickoff return after Washburn had taken the lead seconds earlier on Kevin McCormick's one-yard plunge. Freshman Extra Point Specialist Carl Gross, put the Indians in lead when he split the uprights for a 7-6 advantage.

SEMO went ahead 13-6 in the second quarter when Sophomore Quarterback Lance Brune scampered six yards. That lead was short lived. Washburn put seven points on the board early in the third period on another McCormick one - yard plunge and Russ Hill's extra point kick to knot the score at 13-13.

Freshman Fullback Dennis Helms cracked over from one yard out in the fourth quarter. Gross added the extra point to give the Indians its deciding margin.

CHARLOTTESVILLE' VA. (AP) Walter Wesbrook of Arcadia, Calif., won the USLTA men's 70-and-over Clay Court Tennis Championship Monday by defeating top- seeded Clarence Chafee, Williamstown, Mass., 6-4, 6-1, in the final.

Northeast Tops MIAA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri Valley hopes to take a big step toward the championship of the Heart of America Conference this week.

The Vikings are first with a 4-0 record and William Jewell is next at 3-1. Those two teams collide at Liberty Saturday. Valley also needs to win if it hopes to continue its climb in the NAIA rankings, which showed the Vikes seventh last week.

Northeast of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association matched Valley's 5-1 season record by ripping Central Missouri, 21-6, and upping its MIAA record to 2-0. Southwest Missouri remained without a victory in six starts but the Bears scrambled the MIAA picture by knotting MU-Rolla, 2020.

Rolla now stands 1-0-1 in the league. Northwest, which provides the opposition for Northeast this week, climbed to 2-1 with a 20-14 triumph over Lincoln University. Southeast, 2013 victor over Washburn, Kan., in a non-league game, is next at 1-1 in the MIAA.

Missouri Valley made it five straight with a 32-14 trouncing of winless Baker, 0-4-2. Tarkio dropped a painful 7-0 decision when College of Emporia completed a 56-yard touchdown pass with 19 seconds remaining. William Jewell tapped Central Methodist, 26-14.

State independents produced a team with a winning record for the first time this year when Washington-St. Louis outlasted Valparaiso, Ind., 31-28, and climbed to 3-2.

Three other independents finished the day with 2-5 campaign records. Culver-Stockton nipped Missouri Western, 6-0, and Missouri Southern fell 28-10 victim to undefeated Arkansas Tech, last week the No. 2 team in the NAIA Division 1 rankings.

Northeast again got strong leadership from quarterback Bob Gibson, who lofted touchdown passes of 29 and 41 yards to Tom Geregine. Bruce Ayers launched three touchdown passes and Dewey Buck ran for two more in keeping Valley rolling.

Dave Frisch's 60-yard runback with an interception sparked William Jewell to a pair of second-half touchdowns and a comeback win over Central Methodist.

Southeast got a one-yard TD plunge by Eddie Moss with just over three minutes remaining to trim Washburn. The score was set up with a 69-yard gallop by Moss, who rushed for 198 yards.

Northwest packed all its 30 pointsiinto the third quarter against Lincoln with Steve McCluskey setting a heady pace. McCluskey fired touchdown passes of 18 yards to Bob Endy and 46 yards to Dave Hansen, then switched roles and hauled in a 16-yard scoring toss from Curtis Priest.

Why The Bible is a CATHOLIC Book

The Bible is a Catholic Book:

Because members of the Catholic Church, under God's inspiration wrote the New Testament in its entirety.

Because it was the Catholic Church which treasured it and gave it to the world in its original and unaltered form. It is the infallible authority of the Catholic Church that always has been the only sure guarantee of its inspiration.

Established by Jesus Christ Himself and rapidly spread among the nations of the world, the Catholic Church was carrying on Christ's work for the salvation of men some 60 years before the Apostle John wrote his book of the New Testament.

For more than a thousand years afterward, the Scriptures were preserved and circulated by Catholic monks and scholars who laboriously copied the sacred text by hand. And the Bible authorized by the Catholic Church was the first book produced by Gutenberg upon the invention of printing with movable type.

Although the Bible is a Catholic Book it is a book for all Christians and indeed all people. A proper understanding of the Scriptures can exert a tremendous influence for good in your personal life. You should, therefore, know where we get the Bible . . . what it means . . . why you can believe its every word. If you would like to investigate more thoroughly the relationship of the Catholic Church to the Bible, to Christ and to you—you owe it to yourself to get the facts.

Write today for a short free course of instruction—no cost—no obligation. You can read it in the privacy of your home.

Former Newsman Visits Communes

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

ROBERT HOURIET

NEW YORK (AP) — "Communes are pointing the way to the kind of society we are going to be forced to adopt," declares Robert Houriet, who spent a year visiting 50 communal experiments over the country to learn why more and more Americans are choosing this life style.

The former newsman began his 10,000-mile odyssey after leaving his newspaper job in protest. He supported the right of one of his reporters to wear long hair against the publisher's wishes.

Skeptical and cynical at the start, Houriet found his own commitment to the movement "sort of snuck up" on him. The title of the book he has written about his experiences, "Getting Back Together," refers to going back in time as well as getting back to the land, he explains.

"Communes resemble 1871 more than 1971 and there is a lot to be said for the way people lived in 1871," says the 34-year-old author whose house in Vermont has no electricity. "We shouldn't forget all technology, but we should first go back and then go forward and take the right route this time. I have a feeling that civilization got off the major road and got on a detour that's going off a cliff."

The lanky, bearded Houriet found the common denominator of all the places he visited was a belief that the land and nature was the basis for a good society — a conviction he shares.

"When we destroy our natural environment we not only befoul our nest, but we also undermine certain psychological underpinnings of man," he says. "When we cover the natural environment with asphalt and plastic man grows neurotic and frustrated and starts to turn to other forms of sensory escape, such as drugs and alcohol, to compensate for what is missing in life."

Houriet adds that the stereotype of communarians as involved primarily with drugs and sex doesn't fit. "In the whole trip I saw no one shoot up heroin or use speed. But I did see ex-junkies and ex-speed freaks who had gone to the communes in search of some natural rehabilitation. As for sex, couples predominate and for the time they are together they are fairly monogamous. It's not as orgiastic as people think."

At least 2,000 communal experiments are in operation in rural sections of the country and the number rapidly is expanding, Houriet reports. The trend of the movement is from communes to communities.

"Communes, which have no clearly defined purpose or structure, foster more intense interaction among people, since they usually live in the same house," he elaborates. "They attract younger people who are on the road, searching, restless, and there is a big turnover and surface instability."

Communities, he notes, are more organized and traditional, made up of separate dwellings, and they tend to attract more settled older people, often with children. In many cases they are built around a specific craft, industry or body of faith.

"There are no failures and no successes," he says. "Whatever works for you is a successful plan. Because some communes break up doesn't make them failures. People still were changed, grew. Some stay together and go on to try other experiences, looking back on the previous one as part of the growth process.

"There is no magic formula, but I know some problems to avoid," continues Houriet, who plans to start his own community in northern Vermont. "I want to make sure the land is owned by the group and not by an individual, because when one person owns land he becomes sort of a natural dictator. And there has to be a process for settling disputes and for making decisions."

Houriet, a Phi Beta Kappa, has a BA degree from Brown University, a Master of Science degree from the Columbia School of Journalism and a Master of Arts in Literature from New York University. His wife, a Wellesley graduate, shares her husband's enthusiasm for living in the country in some kind of community arrangement. They have two children.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Oct. 25, the 298th day of 1971. There are 67 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, Germany and Italy formed the RomeBerlin axis, pledging mutual assistance in case of war.

On this date—

In 1701, a city charter was granted to Philadelphia.

In 1838, the French composer, Georges Bizet, was born in Paris.

In 1854, Britain's heroic charge of the Light Brigade took place near Sevastopol, Russia, during the Crimean War.

In 1938, the Chinese government, fleeing Japanese invaders, established itself at Chungking.

In 1941, in World War II, German troops captured Kharkov in the Soviet Ukraine.

In 1944, the second battle of the Philippine Sea was being fought.

Ten years ago: The United States protested to the Soviet Union after East Germany said foreigners entering East Berlin would have to show their passports.

Five years ago: Former Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio was sentenced to death for his part in a Communist attempt to seize control of Indonesia.

One year ago: About 25 persons were killed in Colombia when avalanches swept away stretches of a mountain road.

Today's birthdays: Ex-King Michael of Romania is 50.

Thought for today: With all thy getting get understanding -- The Bible.

Cooney Implement Entered But Nothing Missing

Cooney Equipment company on highway 61 south was broken into over the weekend, but apparently the thieves were not successful. Nothing was reported missing.

Cooney officials said two rear doors were broken into and a chain that divides the offices from the remainder of the building had been severed.

Police were puzzled about the thieves intentions when it was discovered that a small amount of money on an office shelf was left untouched. Apparently no attempt was made to open the company safe or any of file cabinets.

The equipment company was the target of theives two weeks ago, but little was reported missing.

TWO SERGEANTS on the Cape Girardeau County sheriff's department are shown examining a machine that can bring national crime information at a moments notice. The officers are David Sander, standing, and Warren Rauh. Sander was formerly an officer with the Sikeston Police Department.

Cape County Receives Latest Crime Details

JACKSON — Area law enforcement will be strengthened with the installation of a communications system at the Cape Girardeau county sheriff's office that can bring latest crime information from across the nation at a moment's notice.

Sheriff Ivan McLain said today the system, which costs $225 monthly, is being hooked up with highway patrol headquarters in Jefferson City and the National Crime Information Center in Washington, D.C.

Hy said all information checks can be had almost immediately on persons or vehicles and selected checks on property.

The new 24-hour system comprises an arm of the statewide Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System.

The monthly cost will be paid for two years by the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

Sheriff McLain said deputies James Ainsworth and Stephen Poe will attend a three - day school to learn to fully implement the system. They in turn will teach other officers.

The system, which will get underway this week, will be utilized by all law enforcement agencies in the area.

Fate Of Antiwar Amendment Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — A double-barreled antiwar amendment appears likely to pass the Senate and move to an uncertain House fate, perhaps before President Nixon's next Vietnam troop withdrawal announcement Nov. 15.

The Senate amendment to the foreign aid bill would require total U.S. withdrawal within six months and would cut off funds for American military operations throughout Indochina except the amount necessary for withdrawing forces and protecting the pull-out.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Saturday the amendment "should end the stalemate" and insure the swift return of U.S. soldiers and prisoners of war.

Senate debate begins Tuesday on the bill which would also limit U.S. spending and personnel in Cambodia and expand the committee's jurisdiction over all U.S. aid in Southeast Asia.

Although the House has consistently rejected similar amendments, the margin has narrowed to fewer than 30 votes despite vigorous White House lobbying against such measures.

Pentagon sources have indicated the President could announce a total withdrawal of American ground combat troops by next July and possibly sooner.

But the White House has given no indication of the magnitude of next month's announcement.

Meanwhile, a British guerrilla warfare expert predicted the phase-out of American ground troops will be virtually complete "within a month or two."

Sir Robert Thompson, a personal consultant to Nixon on Indochina, said in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report:

"I can hardly imagine that within a month or two any American ground forces will be involved in combat other than those who are providing close security at American bases."

Thompson said the pace of troop withdrawal could be stepped up so that no more than 50,000 would remain in Vietnam by next summer.

The antiwar amendment, the Foreign Relations Committee asserted, would "declare a clear national policy in Indochina" for withdrawal in six months if American prisoners were freed.

The amendment incorporates the Mansfield amendment setting the six-month deadline which passed the Senate and was defeated on a procedural vote in the House last Tuesday. The tally was 215-193, closest yet on such a measure.

House antiwar forces, however, say they doubt they could muster enough votes to actually cut off funds for the war, an additional provision of the new amendment authored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Wife Being Held In Slaying Case

CHARLESTON-- Elbert Horton, 39, farm laborer, who lived at Roamer Courts, was shot and killed at 5 p.m. Sunday at the home of his common-law wife, Mrs. Mary Riggins, 36, of route two.

According to Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, Horton was shot once in the abdomen with a single shot 12-gauge shotgun by Mrs. Riggins.

Horton reportedly was attempting to break into the house and officers were told by one of the couple's five children that Horton told Mrs. Riggins "if you don't kill me, I'll kill you."

Mrs. Riggins, who has not made a statement, is being held for investigation, of murder in the Mississippi county jail.

Horton was born May 15, 1932 in Clarkton.

He lived in Mississippi county since 1938.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Bertha Horton of rural Charleston; one son, Elbert Horton Jr., four daughters, Beverly, Caroline, Maggie and Evelyn Horton; six brothers, T. C., Garland, and Fletcher Horton all of St. Louis, Arlee Horton of Haynes City, Fla., Willie and Eugene Horton, both of Charleston; and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Jean Allen of Mansfield, Ohio, and Miss Athalee Horton of Charleston.

The body was taken to Sparks Funeral Home.

Holdup Denied

A Bell City resident has identified two Sunset Addition residents as the men who robbed him of $70 at gunpoint Sunday morning.

Floyd Wiley told police two men stopped him as he walked near Wiggin's Place in Sunset and at gunpoint robbed him of $70.

The two men were apprehended and brought to the police station but denied the charges and were released. There were no witnesses.

The incident was referred to Prosecutor Tom Gilmore.

Two Cyclists Hurt

Two boys were injured Saturday when the bicycles which they were riding collided with an automobile on North Ranney.

Police said a car driven by Harold Shelton, 33, of 730 North Ranney was southbound on North Ranney at noon Saturday when it collided with the bicycle riding youths at the intersection of Woodlawn and North Ranney. The youths were Craig Lopp, 10, of 212 Kramer Drive and Pat Hunter, 7, of route four.

Shelton and witnesses told police the two boys drove into the path of Shelton's automobile. The two were eastbound on Woodlawn.

Shelton drove the two to the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community hospital where they were admitted.

Lopp was released Sunday after treatment for cuts and bruises and Hunter remains hospitalized for cuts and bruises.

Tractor Kills Boy

MALDEN -- Kipling Wells, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wells, was killed Saturday when he either jumped or fell from a farm tractor.

The highway patrol said one of the tractor's rear wheels ran over the child's head. The tractor was being driven by Harry Bolten III, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bolten Jr., route two.

The child, whose body was taken to the Boyd Funeral Home, was dead on arrival at the Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett. The accident occurred at 2:30 p.m.

The boy was born Sept. 30, 1965.

Survivors include his parents; one sister Kimberly Wells; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Richardson of Tennessee.

Services were at 3 p.m. today at McEvoy Chapel in Paris, Tenn.

Burial was in Memorial cemetery there.

Wreck Kills Woman

One was killed and eight seriously injured Saturday night when two cars collided headon on Interstate 55 one mile north of the Arkansas line.

The highway patrol said Mrs. Walter Johnson, 42, of Cahokia, Ill., was killed when a car in which she was riding was hit by a 1960 Chevrolet convertible, driven by Robert Tucker, 43, of Wardell.

The patrol reported Tucker, who was driving north in the southbound lane, will be charged with driving while intoxicated. Tucker was injured seriously.

The patrol reported Tucker's car was being pursued by Arkansas authorities when the accident occurred at 7:30 p.m.

Others injured were Mrs. Johnson's husband, 41, driver of a 1967 Chevrolet, and his six children, Shirley 19, Susa Ann, 13, Mitchell 10, Patricia, 7, Lavergia, 5, and Trina, 1.

The injured were taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Mrs. Johnson's body was taken to the Carter Funeral Home in Caruthersville.

$15 Pants Taken

Police are looking for a man sought for Saturday night shoplifting at Wal-Mart in the Mid-Towner Shopping Center.

Wal-Mart officials told police the man, a Negro described as six feet, 180 pounds, wearing a black and yellow jacket, apparently stole a pair of men's pants valued at $15 and then fled from the store. The man ran east, turned south near Ingram Road and disappeared.

A juvenile was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of shopliifting at Wal-Marts. He was taken into custody and later released.

INDUSTRIAL AND HOUSING STORAGE will soon be available at the Federal Compress and Warehouse Company on North Streets and Petty Streets. The camera is pointed from the loading dock side of the 240 by 160 foot remodeled building. The project is scheduled to be completed in the next 30 days. A large paved parking lot will be in the foreground.

Woman Wounded In Irish Riots

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A woman guerrilla opened fire on British troops today and was shot and wounded, military sources reported.

The shooting occurred as the Irish Republican Army began striking back with bombs and bullets in retaliation for the weekend killing of two women by British troops.

The incident, in which one soldier was wounded, underlined what the British say may be a dangerous new phase in Northern Ireland's violence— the increasing deployment of women and girls by the outlawed IRA.

A storm of riot and protest followed the Saturday killings of 19-year-old Dorothy Maguire and her married sister, Mary Meehan, 30, mother of four.

They were hit by army bullets as they drove with friends through Belfast's Lower Falls district, an IRA stronghold.

The army insisted that two shots had been fired at soldiers from the car, and that troops were justified in firing back.

Associates denied that the sisters had fired.

This morning's Irish News, a Roman Catholic daily, carried death notices, however, identifying Miss Maguire as a staff officer of Cumann Na Bhan, the IRA women's organization.

This morning's shooting came in Belfast's Andersonstown district.

The army said troops searching houses for arms came under fire at several places.

Pictures in Irish newspapers recently have shown young women under arms training. Couples have been seen posing as young lovers in shop doorways. When they move on, a bomb goes off.

The security forces claim to have captured at least 300 hard-core IRA gunmen since internment without trial was ordered Aug. 9. Now the army says newly trained girls may be coming forward to take their place.

In addition to the woman guerrilla and the British soldier, the over-all weekend toll in Northern Ireland since Saturday was six civilians killed and one wounded by troops and police. Five soldiers and a policeman were wounded by snipers.

The policeman was shot in the head early today when he looked out of an upstairs window at his home after a knock on the front door. His condition was critical.

Detectives said they shot and killed a man, wounded a woman and captured another man Sunday after the trio planted a bomb that wrecked a Belfast night club.

The customers fled through windows and doors, and no one was injured in the explosion.

Police said the three terrorists, who were armed with automatic pistols, did not heed an order to halt, and officers opened fire.

Two sisters were shot dead in a car in Belfast, and three men were killed as they tried to rob a bank at Newry. The slayings brought the death toll to 133 in more than two years of civil strife in Northern Ireland.

Mobs attacked troops with fire bombs in Londonderry. Rioters set fire to a lumber yard in Newry and looted shops as 3,000 mourners followed the coffins of the three men killed there.

The Irish Republican Army swore to avenge the deaths with "a life for a life." At a meeting in Dublin, IRA Chief of Staff Sean MacStiofain told a cheering crowd the underground army was launching a final phase "more intensive than anything so far."

Ruairi O'Bradaigh, president of Sinn Fein, the IRA's political branch, said the movement would force the British army to withdraw from Northern Ireland by bringing down the provincial parliament there and making the province "ungovernable."

Named a vice president of the Sinn Fein was David O'Connell, 33, who is wanted by British and Dutch police in connection with three tons of Czechoslovak arms seized Sept. 16 at Amsterdam. Authorities said the weapons were intended for the IRA.

Assisted And Arrested

Twenty -five -year old Chester Swinney of Sikeston has been charged with the Thursday night burglary of Nancy's Sweet Shop on South Main.

Patrolman Robert Madison spotted Swinney stalled in his car late Thursday night and asked if he could give assistance. Swinney agreed and Madison drove him to a nearby telephone booth. Swinney had said he developed car trouble and wanted a repairman.

Madison delivered Seinney to a coin operated telephone, and as he drove away noticed in his rear view mirror that Swinney did not make a telephone call, but instead began to walk toward the vicinity of his automobile. Madison decided to investigate and followed Swinney back to his car.

Once at Swinney's car, Madison found $232 in the front seat and when questioned he said Swinney told him he had no knowledge of the money.

Madison investigated and found a cash register, valued at $800, two $10 bills, and a large sum of cash in a ditch near Swinney's car.

The register and money, Madison said, were taken from Nancy's Sweet Shop earlier in the night. The rear door of the store had been broken into.

Swinney was taken to the city jail, where he is being held.

The man is under presentencing investigation by the probation and parole board following his guilty plea in circuit court last week to a July burglary at Jarvis Motor Company.

ADVICE FROM THE HEADMASTER

Donald Barr, Headmaster of Manhattan's prestigious Dalton School, nas written a new book, Who Pushed Humpty Dumpty? Dilemmas in American Education, in which he offers excellent observations about children and their education.

On Student Radicals: "I believe that unearned approval in childhood is the source of three traits common among the student radicals: 1) They are far less argumentative than young radicals used to be. Arguing takes listening. 2) They read surprisingly little, although they know of a great many books. 3) They lack humor. Humor takes humility. A sense of humor is based on seeing and accepting human nature as stumbling, pretentious, and forever bedeviled. When I hear boys and girls call their parents 'hypocrites' (a favorite word), I know I am looking at humorless — and therefore dangerous — children."

On Parents : 'The rules of parenthood are simple enough: Be an adult and enjoy being an adult. Do not permit what you do not soberly approve. Set limits and see that they are kept. When should a parent turn over authority to the child? When the child stops reaching for authority and reaches for responsbiility."

On Discipline: "Few of us like to think about discipline. To the modern liberal mind, the word has an almost pornographic sound. But discipline is necessary to freedom. Though discipline and freedom seem antithetical, each without the other destroy itself. In painting, craft without imagination is sterile, and imagination with out craft aborts to its image ... In government order without dissent stagnates, and rebellion without law makes chaos, and both are despotic."

On the Underachiever: "The method of forestalling underachievement is to hold before the child at all times the allure and satisfaction of competence."

On Sex: "The community has a stake in one's interpersonal relations, because it is a fabric woven of such relations. The adolescent must not be allowed to argue that he can do what he wants with his own body. His body is not his alone, since he owes something to the phylogeny that has endowed it and to the society that has arranged for its protection and nourishment." Barr criticizes that form of sex education which is too heavy on biology, too light on understanding.

NO TRICKS

When former President Harry Truman learned of the food shortages in many parts of the world after World War II, he turned to former President Herbert Hoover as the American with most experience in dealing with such problems.

Among the things Mr. Hoover recommended was the establishment within the United Nations of a special organization to focus attention on the needs of children. That organization became the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Today UNICEF helps the 900 million children who live in underdeveloped nations to get better health, nutrition and education.

It depends largely upon voluntary contributions. This Halloweeen again, some children will be asking your help in the form of coins to support UNICEF instead of treats for themselves. It is a worthy cause.

DID KUNSTLER WRECK
ATTICA NEGOTIATIONS?

As the facts begin to come out on the Attica prison riot, revolutionary lawyer William Kunstler was accused by a fellow negotiator last week of sabotaging the Attica negotiations by inflaming inmates to the point where they were making impossible demands. The charge was made by David Anderson, a black school official from Rochester who spent 17 hours inside Attica as an inmate-invited negotiator. In a copyrighted interview with the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, Anderson said that until Kunstler showed up negotiations were proceeding well.

The amnesty issue was not considered important, Anderson recalled. The inmates gave a kind of fatalistic acceptance they wouldn't get it. They weren't trying to get out of there, they just wanted to improve things inside the prison.

Anderson was certain that agreement was near. "I felt pretty optimistic, everyone felt pretty good -- we had the confidence of the inmates." Then the hard-line Kunstler arrived on the scene and wrecked any chance for a peaceful solution. "He heightened their expectation about getting amnesty. It picked up and put the leadership we had been dealing with in a precarious position. The leadership began to spread out.

"After he heightened their expectation about the amnesty, the emotion and noise in the yard was raised. What had been a list of 15 proposals spread out to more than 30 demands."

When Anderson left Attica at four in the morning on Saturday he was "very worried." Kunstler, he claimed had prevented settlement, and "I knew we had failed in keeping it calm."

Note: In Washington, Rep. Louis Wyman (R-N.H.) introduced a resolution urging the American and New York Bar Associations to disbar Kunstler for his incredible attack on Gov. Rockefeller. Wyman, a former state attorney general, said: "Atty. Kunstler's characterization of Gov. Rockefeller as a 'murderer,' his statement that if he had a gun in his hand and near Rockefeller he would have been tempted to empty all of it, his continuing purveyance of hatred and incitation to violence is incompatible with membership in good standing of a Bar Association worthy of the name."

HOMOSEXUALITY AND THE CHURCHES

"If a man also lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death." This Old Testament View (Leviticus 20:13) toward homosexuality has softened to the point where many consider it to be at worst an illness deserving not condemnation but medical treatment. Even the churches, once united in their stand on the immorality of homosexuality, are taking a new look at the problem.

This attitude will be in evidence when the Council on Religion and the Homosexual holds its 6th symposium in San Francisco on Friday, Oct. 29. The Council's objective is "to promote a continuing dialogue between gay people and the heterosexual world." To this end, the 25-40 teachers, lawyers, social workers, doctors and clergyment expected to attend the three-day conference will meet in small groups to consider the problems -- personal, religious and political -- facing the homosexual in the 1970s. There will be panel discussions with homosexuals and visits to the gay bars, restaurants and homes.

To date, only two national denominations – the Lutheran Church and the Unitarian Universalist Association -- have publicly endorsed the homosexual's right to equal employment, housing and freedom from police harassment. Rev. Robert W. Wood, pastor of the United Church of Christ in Newark, N.J., has charged that many churches tell the homosexual: "You can come and worship here provided you can pass for heterosexual." Many homosexuals are no longer willing to abide by such regulations and are establishing their own churches. In 1968, Troy Perry, a homosexual minister, founded the Metropolitan Community Church in Los Angeles, the first congregation in the nation for homosexuals. In September 1970 the nation's newest denomination, the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches, was set up to coordinate the activities of such churches.

This religious assertiveness is one aspect of the new homosexual militancy. The National Institute of Mental Health has estimated that there are about four million American men and women who consider themselves homosexual. Some homosexual organizations claim the number is as high as 30 million. Increasing numbers of these men and women are demanding the elimination of criminal penalties for homosexual acts in private between consenting adults. Thus far, four states -- Illinois, Connecticut, Colorado and Idaho -- have passed such laws.

In the 20-year period, F.Y. 1950-70, the number of states having general sales taxes increased by 55 percent, from 29 to 45. Total collections from this levy rose from $1.7 to $14.1 billion, an increase of more than 700 percent.

HOW TO BALANCE
THE BUDGET

We have been thinking of ways to induce President Nixon and members of Congress to stop running up huge federal deficits.

Mere words haven't even slowed the spending in Washington. The deficit last year was $23 billion. This year it is estimated it will be $27 billion.

There is too much apathy to organize another Boston Tea Party.

Besides, it isn't considered good form or the ecological thing to do—our harbors already being the recipients of too many other pollutants without adding huge amounts of tea.

Then the idea came to us. It was so simple and direct we were surprised that no one else had proposed it.

Why not require the President and each member of the House and Senate to pay a one cent penalty for each million dollars that the federal budget goes into deficit each year.

For example, if the federal deficit for fiscal 1972 does reach $27,000,000,000, the total penalty would be $2,700,000. This would be divided equally among all members of Congress and the President.

By our figures, the penalty for every member of the House and Senate and the President would be $5,037.31. Now that isn't a huge amount in relation to the $27,000,000,000 but if they each had to pay $5,037.31 at the end of the year for going this far into the red, we feel reasonably confident the budget would not only be balanced the next year, but show a sizable surplus.

There's only one hitch to this idea. It probably would have to be approved by Congress and President Nixon. It might be difficult to get their support. —Globe-Democrat.

WHO IS
CHARLES KOEN?

Those who eat regularly and well have always found it difficult to fathom those who fast as a form of social protest. The usual assessment is that fasting is an undertaking that appeals to the deranged, or, perhaps, to saints—a judgment, likely as not, that is a function of distance: Those who fast close to home are deranged; those who fast abroad are saints.

How then are we to understand a young man, a black man, who is now fasting in St. Louis? It has been more than 40 days since Charles Koen went on a water-only diet, and though his body is weakened by the loss of almost 60 pounds, he continues to refuse food even though he has been taken to a hospital from the City Workhouse where he was serving a six-month sentence for assaulting a policeman. He is fasting because he claims he is innocent.

There are some, including many in positions of authority, who would contend that Charles Koen is nothing but a trouble-maker, an outside agitator, a man whose approach to problems does more harm than good, a fanatic. There are others, however, who see him as a dedicated and articulate militant who has turned up everywhere from Kinloch to Cairo in recent years in an attempt to rally blacks against the poverty and oppression that he believes characterizes their lives in a society where The Man is white and well-off.

By persisting in his fast, Charles Koen has forced the state, which he claims is trying to silence him, to order that he be fed intravenously, if necessary, to keep him alive. Reports from the hospital are that he intends to resist forced feeding. It is a remarkable demonstration of will, whoever and whatever Charles Koen really is, as a man, or as a symbol of protest. —Post-Dispatch.

GLAD HE'S OUT OF RACE FOR GOVERNOR

We're glad Congressman Richard Ichord decided to stay out of the race for the Democratic nomination...

Not because we don't like or respect him...

But because we believe he is more valuable to Missourians and the nation as a forcible, progressive Congressman than he would be as a Governor...even if there was any guarantee he could be nominated and elected.

Dick Ichord has registered an outstanding performance as a Congressman. We need more of his kind and need to keep him there.

In addition to that, there are already too many candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Missouri. Only one can win, and it might or might not have been Ichord if he had run. If he had lost, Missouri would have been deprived of his fine services as either Congressman or Governor.

Again, we think he made the best decision for Missourians, and probably for himself. —Paris Appeal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Would it pay society to pay students for behaving well in school rather than poorly?

Instead of punishing students for bad behavior, Dr. Edward T. Ladd, an Emory University educator, suggests rewarding them with a salary of $10 or so a month for good behavior. He believes money for such a pioneering project might come initially from foundations.

We swat many insects and feel superior to them, but they can do many things we cannot. For example, the long, slenderbodied dragonfly has wings thinner than fine paper, but it can fly at a speed of 40 miles an hour.

It has been said that a committee can never accomplish anything worthwhile. But it was a committee of religious scholars in the 17th century which produced the King James' translation of the Bible, still regarded by millions as the greatest in the English language.

America isn't exactly winning its battle against being engulfed by our own debris of living. Each of us now generates an average of six pounds of garbage each day. That's twice as much per person as we did 50 years ago.

If you want to lose weight and the doctor says your heart is healthy, tennis can be one of your best forms of exercise. It can use up more than 10 times as much energy as you'd expend plodding after a golf ball.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Both President Nixon and Vice President Agnew have paid high tribute to a notorious anti-Jewish editor in Pittsburgh.

Their effusive accolades were published by the proud editor, Geno Szebedinsky, in the same newspaper in which he touched such scandalously anti-Semitic tracts as the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion" and the "Myth of Six Million."

On the front page, Szebedinsky published a letter from President Nixon declaring: "Your distinguished career as editor and publisher is well known to me. I am proud to join your friends and admirers in their tribute to the enviable reputation you have earned, and to the high standards you have perpetuated. . ."

Nixon praised Szebedinsky for "four decades of . . . unfailing dedication to the cause of freedom and human dignity and justice" and added that the anti-Semite was "deeply appreciated by countless readers within the Hungarian community and throughout the country."

This ringing praise was echoed by Agnew who said Szebedinsky's "hard work and dedication are fine examples for others to follow." Agnew's letter was also printed on page one.

On page seven Szebedinsky urged upon his readers an assortment of anti-Jewish literature, including Henry Ford's venemous "The International Jew," which the old car maker later repudiated, the "Protocols and three books by the late Lajos Marschalko, a notorious Nazi who lauded the Nazi butchers of Auschwitz.

INCIMMINATING WORDS

In earlier editions, Szebedinsky printed other anti-Jewish diatribes. A front-page article on Oct. 31, 1969, for example, charges that Jews "put to death thousands of the best Hungarians or simply murdered them."

And in the same edition, Szebedinsky's paper claimed: "The Talmudic way of thinking reigns with the sign of revenge, celebrating orgies of lies, fraud, and self- deception."

Last March 26, Szebedinsky advised his readers that anti-Semitism is really a result of "Jewry, which is living and gasping unquenchably for revenge." Anyone believing the Nazis killed six million Jews, he also printed, is brainwashed.

After Szebedinsky published the Nixon and Agnew letters to President last May, the World Federation of Hungarian Jews charged that Szebedinsky once wore the uniform of the SS in World War II.

The accusation was contained in stinging letters to President Nixon and to Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., himself a Jew. The Nixon-Agnew letters, complained the Federation, were "deeply offending to the victims of Nazi barbarism."

The Federation told us the President did not reply. We checked the extensive but incomplete Archieves files of SS officers, and found no record of Szebedinsky or a second name he used in Hungary, Janos Hortobagyi.

Szebedinsky, in two talks with us from Pittsburgh, confirmed that he served as an officer in the Hungarian army on the side of the Nazis but forcefully denied he was in the SS. "The only SS I am in," he said, " is Social Security."

SZEBEDINSKY AND NIXON

Szebedinsky said he met the President only once eight years ago and didn't know Agnew at all. Szebedinsky admitted, when pressed, he knew the late Lajos Marschalko and has printed some of his articles.

Explained Szebedinsky: "Marschalko was a Nazi newspaperman. He came to America and the immigration officers didn't want to let him in. But he was never a killer, really a good fellow, a good drinker and he liked the girls."

On the day-in, day-out stream of anti-Jewish matter he published, he claimed he attacked only "Jewish Communists." "Never, never, never in my whole life have I ever thought of anti-Semitism," he said. "Who do you believe, these nice big organizations, or me, a poor newspaperman?"

Footnote: We recently revealed that Dr. Joseph Pauco, who was Hitler's chief troubadour in Slovakia in World War II, was a key advisor to the Republican party on Slovak-American affairs. Pauco denied the charges, and for two weeks the GOP backed him up. But the clamor against Pauco grew, bulwarked by the Anti-Defamation League which dug from its own massive files still more facts on Pauco's Nazi ties. Finally, on October 6, Pauco offered his resignation and GOP National Chairman Bob Dole ratified it almost before the ink was dry. The action was taken as we were preparing a second article on the dapper Pauco, reporting how Pauco had called brave Jews "wild beasts" who "will not escape their well- deserved punishment." The respected Czechoslovakian author, the late Dr. Joseph Lettich, charged Pauco served on a special tribunal that reviewed the sentences of courageous Jewish and Slovakian insurgents who fought against Hitler.

Yablonski Killer's Confession: Murder trials starting; Hysteria May prolong strike of coaldiggers browning out much of nation

WASHINGTON: A series of murder trials in a small Pennsylvania town set to go before the county judge the morning of Nov. 1, will spurt emotion across coal mine patches in 20 states like lava from Mauna Loa in heat.

These will be the trials of five persons accused of killing the now ghoulishly famous Yablonskis. Since there is a loyal cult dedicated to proving that the United Mine Workers (UMW), John L. Lewis's bequest to America, was in some way responsible for the Yablonski deaths, there will be rumbles in the coal fields, chain-reaction efforts to whip up the current 80,000-man strike, so that it runs into the second anniversity of the late coal union officials' killing. This means New Year's Eve.

Bluntly, this could cripple the nation, throw hundreds of thousands out of jobs, slow down coke-eating steel mills and, worst of all --begin to brown out whole cities as coal-burning electric power stations gasp for fuel.

President Tony Boyle of the UMW, already beleaguered and besieged by some six court actions reaching into the Supreme Court, told me that "it will take only another couple of weeks before the cities start browning out. Take my word. This strike can take a long time."

And that's without the impact of the rank and file and the band that calls itself Miners for Democracy, which is demanding one of the costliest coal contracts in industrial history.

For the moment in this context the issues that forced the breach between the miners union and the soft industry, led by a group of progressive industrialists, are not vital here. There is a strike. Boyle is ready to begin paying out some $7.5 million . week in strike relief. The issue therefore is the avoidance of provocation by angry units within the union which would sow choas into the mine pits.

This nation's economic recovery is now in the idle hands of the coal diggers. If they continue to paralyze the pits, they paralyze the country. There just is not enough coal above ground despite confident reports. There seem to be no up-to-the-minute figures on reserves either in the Federal Power Commission or the Office of Emergency Preparedness. Coal operator's spokesmen tell me that in a week the power industry will have to begin "trucking" which means transfering stockpiles from powerhouse to powerhouse. Which in a month will add up to a creeping brownout of megalopolises.

Reportedly there is a 75-day supply on hand. But that's an old figure. It doesn't consider the strike which hit the coal fields Oct. 1.

So any extension would hit the power gut of the nation--anywhere from mass transportation to isolated farms.

Left to themselvess Tony Boyle and the bituminous industry's negotiators, long-experienced men such as Joe Moody and Heath Larry (of U.S. Steel) will work out a wage increase, a hike royalties for the pension an welfare fund which has pai out over $3 billion in 24 year and there will be son machinery to increa production and punish wildc strikers.

But if the murder trials a exploited out in the patche this nation could well powerless. So let's look at t murders. One of the prisone Claude Vealery, has confesse I've read the 15-pa confession of the man who the FBI caught about tw weeks after discovery of t bodies in the early days 1970.

Examined word by wor the confession indicated th during the 1969 election, wh the slain Jock Yablonski w battering the Boyle leadersh during the hard -hitti campaign, the dead man d not fear for his life. He did n cover his tracks. He did n hide plans or itinerary. Nor d his family. Nor did th hesitate to talk to stranger and tell them accurately Yablonski's whereabouts.

These are not the marks people in fear. Therefore it c be assumed that Yablonski d not worry about himself a more than any man high in union, deep in partis national politics or active in h community.

Look at the record: Veale the confessed killer, says in t document that he, sometim alone, sometimes with tw others he implicates, had fr access either to the Yablons home or to the dead man or h family. On page two of t confession he says that October 1969 he and tw others drove to Clarksville, P where they found t Yablonski residence unlocke They went in and "cased"

Then they called the hon later and were told Yablons was out of town compaignin Two days later they went Washington, telephoned h office and were told he w staying with his son Josep They drove to Joseph's hon and spoke to the sc pretending to see employment. Joseph told the that his father was in Sorento Pa. Later they aga telephoned the Yablons home and spoke to Mr Yablonski who told them Joe was en route home. Then in later call she said he ha changed his mind.

They called again in a f days and were told he w speaking in Beckley, W. V and they "cased" him there.

On Dec. 8, or so, 1969, th drove to the Yablonski hom He came to the door, talk with them framed in t doorway. Vealey could ha killed him then for he w armed with a chrome-plat Smith & Wesson .36 calib revolver. Another accus killer had a .25 calib automatic.

Yablonski told them whe they could find work, mine and so. And on the night of t murder the residence's inn doors were not locked. Y Yablonski followers ignore this. There is a mystery ma He is known as "Tony." He the killers' paymaster.

But until he's caught, th nation should not get caug up in the backlash intra-union politics, emotio understandable sorrow a chaos.

Rumsfeld Says Wage-Price Panel Unlikely To Handle Each Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the Cost of Living Council says it "would be an incredible burden" for the Pay Board and Price Commission to rule on every requested salary or price hike during Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic stabilization program.

Instead, says director Donald Rumsfeld, he expects the panels to strike a balance between a case-by-case approach and the present all-encompassing wage-price freeze.

Rumsfeld stressed in an Associated Press interview that he did not want to preempt any of the board's options.

"...We have to recognize that the President created the Pay Board and Price Commission to make the decisions," Rumsfeld said. "And I think this is worth underlining. Those who have suggested that thingss are confusing because there's not a government edict on every aspect of this are wrong.

"The choice the President made was to have a process that would involve the Board and the Commission and they would make those kinds of judgments in an orderly way."

Meanwhile, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, called for an outright ban on corporate mergers during Nixon's Phase 2.

Many of the nation's price problems "stem directly from the concentration of economic power in certain industries," Patman maintained Sunday.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson predicted the wage and price boards will focus on big industries such as the nation's 500 largest corporations.

Hodgson, interviewed on WRC television in Washington Sunday, said he expects the boards to proceed case-by-case with no fixed limits for acceptable wage-and-price increases.

In his interview Rumsfeld acknowledged that there have been complaints from the business community that businessmen haven't been told precisely how Phase 2 will affect their pricing policies.

"...They will know in good time," Rumsfeld said. "The kind of information that the private sector needs to comply ... will certainly be forthcoming."

Rumsfeld, a former congressman who is retaining his title as counselor to the President while heading the COLC,was asked, "Do you think it would be a lot clearer if a general wage standard were put out, rather than developing specific case-by-case standards?"

"If I said yes," he responded, "someone conceivably could take that and go to the Pay Board or Price Commission and say, 'This is what the COLC director thinks.' It is not helpful for the government to seemingly pre-empt options for the members by setting a narrow backdrop for their deliberations."

"A freeze is perfectly clear and simple," he added. "It is also unfair—it is inequitable by definition. A total case-by-case approach would theoretically be better tailored to personal situations. It would be an incredible burden for the Pay Board and the Price Commission to have to make those kinds of judgments for every single economic activity in this country. Now somewhere in between is where they are going to come out ...."

On the ABC-TV program "Issues and Answers" Sunday, Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said he believes the Pay Board would permit already-negotiated pay hikes for union workers to go into effect retroactively when Phase 1 ends Nov. 13. Woodcock is one of five labor members on the 15member Pay Board.

Rumsfeld agreed the board has the power to allow workers to collect wage increases retroactively, but he would not predict what the tri-partite panel might do.

In New York, The New York Times reported retailers have illegally increased the price of meat as much as 10 cents a pound since the Aug. 15 declaration of a freeze.

The newspaper said in today's editions that a state Department of Agriculture report showed increases on seven cuts of meat out of 27 examined in a 10-week study.

Israeli Quints Doing Fine

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's first quintuplets are "doing fine and are out of danger," a spokesman at Hadassah Hospital reported today more than 48 hours after the birth of three girls and two boys to Mrs. Yitzhak Berman.

The 22-year-old mother, a kindergarten teacher, also was reported in good condition.

The father, who is 24, owns a shop where he makes flags and embroidered items.

The babies were born Saturday. Their weights ranged from 1 pound, 8 ounces to 2 pounds, 14 ounces.

The parents have been married for three years and have no other children. Mrs. Berman had been taking a fertility drug and had known she would have a multiple birth since her third month of pregnancy.

Armstrong says it's believed a portion of Kodiak Island has risen about two feet since the quake. He's asked persons who might have information on the possible rise to step forward with any facts they may have.

Bid To Oust Taiwan Still Neck And Neck

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomats said the race was still neck and neck today as the General Assembly neared a vote on whether to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations. Some said it might end in a tie.

The key issue was an American resolution to make the ouster an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

"We think we're going to win that vote," said a spokesman for the U.S. delegation. One diplomat friendly to the American casue figured they had a 58-57 or 59-57 advantage with more favorable votes possible.

However, another friendly diplomat calculated the vote at 59-58 against the resolution or a 58-58 tie. Other assessments were that from 58 to 61 delegations were ready to vote against it and only from 56 to 58 were for it.

Should there be a tie, a second vote would be taken within 48 hours. If the tie persisted, the resolution would fail.

Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia was said to hope the vote could come late today. But key delegations believed the voting would start Tuesday.

The "important question" resolution was crucial because the Albanian resolution to seat the Chinese Communists and oust the Nationalists is certain to get a majority in the Assembly but not a two-thirds majority.

The Albanian resolution was entitled to be voted on first because it was submitted first. But the United States had a motion pending to give its resolution priority.

The United States was also pushing a "dual representation" resolution to offer both the Communists and the Nationalists seats in the Assembly and offer the Communists the Chinese seat on the Security Council.

Peking has said repeatedly that they would have nothing to do with the United Nations as long as the Nationalists remain in it. Their supporters in the world organization say they mean it, but the Americns say there is no way to tell without trying them out.

The United States made one gain Sunday when officials in Rome said Italy would vote for the Albanian resolution but would abstain from the vote on the important question resolution. Many observers had believed Italy would vote against it.

Sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli Cabinet decided Sunday that Israel would vote for the U.S. resolution but this had been generally expected.

The 23 sponsors of the Albanian resolution planned a lastminute strategy session today to discuss whether, in case their resolution failed, a proposal should be put in to make the American dual representation resolution an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority.

Saudi Arabia has proposed amendments to the Albanian resolution to invite the Communists to represent mainland China and notify the Nationalists that tey represent only Taiwan. These appear to have no chance of passage.

Five Doctor Sons Honor Parents With Honorary Medical Degrees

NEW YORK (AP) — Five physician sons have paid tribute to their Italian immigrant parents by lovingly awarding them mock medical degrees at an elegant dinner dance.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Baratta is believed to be the first in the country with five sons all of whom became doctors, according to the American Medical Association.

"Pop has a litle more goodness than a lot of fathers," Michael Baratta, 43, the eldest son, told the gathering at the Pierre Hotel Sunday night.

"We all wanted to become doctors and he and Mom encouraged us every step of the way," he said. "We felt that to give them an honorary degree was the highest thing we could do."

In addition to Michael, an orthopedic surgeon in Canoga Park, Calif., the sons are Anthony, 42; Vincent, 39; and Ronald, 37, who are in joint practice in Lindenhurst, N.Y., and Frank, 33, a cardiologist in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Congratulatory telegrams from President Nixon, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe and a number of New York politicians were read aloud after a six-course meal featuring four wines and a French menu.

There were also awards from the state and county medical societies and the American Committee on Italian Migration. But the final tribute, which came as a surprise, brought tears to the Barattas.

That was when the sons presented their parents with the honorary degree in medicine, which proclaimed them "doctors."

Vincent Baratta, a spry 70, told the 150 guests that he deserved no credit for his sons' accomplishments but was proud of their achievements.

"I had the good fortune to raise my sons when discipline was popular and accepted," said Baratta, a pharmacist in Lindenhurst who also lives part of the year in Fort Lauderdale.

"Oh, it's a wonderful night," said Carmela Baratta, 66, known to her friends as Millie. "My sons sent us a beautiful engraved invitation. "It's so beautiful we had it framed. It said they requested the pleasure of our company."

Manhunt Continues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A wounded gunman who has eluded police since Thursday afternoon made his presence known again Sunday when a St. Louis County man telephoned his wife and said he was the gunman's prisoner.

Authorities said John L. Dorrell, III, 30, called his wife about 4 p.m. at her home in Florissant, Mo. During the fiveminute call Dorrell talked with his wife and his mother Dorothy Dorrell, of Warrenton, Mo. They said he told them he was being treated well and "would be home sometime today."

Police failed in efforts to trace the call. All they had go go on was Dorrell's wife's statement she heard truck noises under her husband's voice.

Dorrell told his wife he was being held by James Leroy Cochran, 36, of St. Louis.

Cochran is named in federal complaints of kidnaping and armed robbery. The FBI has identified him as one of two men who took part in Thursday's robbery of a St. Louis savings and loan company.

A series of events unfolded after the robbery:

Police chased the two men in a car to Northwest High School.

The men abandoned the car and exchanged gunfire with police. One was captured after he was wounded. he was identified as Paul L. Lockhart, 45, of Leslie, Mo.

The second man, identified by police as Cochran, fled into the high school.

He used a teacher as a hostage to elude police, ran on to a nearby house and held the occupant and 13 other persons captive until Thursday evening.

Cochran forced the occupant of the house to drive him into southern Illinois Thursday night. He released the man—his second hostage—and drove off in his car.

The gunman did not surface again until Friday. Police spotted him at various times Friday night after he released a Boonville, Mo., woman—the third hostage. The woman said Cochran had driven her from Boonville to Kansas City, then wound his way back to St. Louis.

Ann Landers

Kindness Nets Boy $6,000 Inheritance

DearAnn Landers: Please, Ann, say something in your column about teachers who make family trees a classroom project. Our little niece came home yesterday with tears in her eyes. Marianne is my sister's child. She was born out of wedlock and we are raising her. Her mother is in California and her father's identity was never made known.

Although Marianne is only nine years old she knows that her mother was never married. We wanted to adopt her four years ago when we took her to live with us but her mother would not agree to it. On Marianne's record at school, her mother is listed as Miss Alice - - - -. I warned Alice tht this would be a problem, and she replied, "She'd better learn to live with it." When the teacher asked the children to draw their family tree, Marianne filled hers out as best she could. The boy across the aisle saw her tree and that started everyone else in the class to talking and laughing about it.

It is my suggestion that these days, when out-of-wedlock children are showing up in school more and more, the tree project should be abolished. Thanks for your help--if I get it.---Tarrytown, N. Y'

Dear R.N.Y.: You've got it. I've never been very excited about family trees. Too often they turn out an abundance of sap.

Dear Ann Landers: I was disappointed in your answer to the woman whose friend gave her daughter a box of dusting powder as a high school graduation gift---one she had received during a recent convalescence. You have often said in your column that a gift is what people want to give--and this time you responded with something about a "cheap streak."

I have learned not to knock the inexpensive gift. Last year in the office grab-bag-exchange at Christmas, I drew a little thing-a-ma-jig that looked like nothing. It was a small hook on the end of a string. Someone explained it was a zipper-pull. I thought it was a pretty crummy gift but said nothing and put it away when I reached home.

A few months later I fell and injured my arm. It was impossible to zip my dresses in the back. Then I remembered the zipper-pull. Ann, I wouldn't take $1,000 for that gadget. It turned out to be the most useful thing in the house. So please tell your readers not to be too hasty in their judgment of gifts. One never knows when that white elephant will turn out to be the best gift of all.---Indy

Dear In: In behalf of all the White-Elephant Givers in thenation I thank you. You've endeared yourself to them forever.

Dear Ann Landers: A neighbor of ours died recently. She was an elderly person, an eccentric, or to put it more bluntly, off her rocker. Our young son befriended her on a few occasions and although she expressed no thanks at the time it seems she did not forget his kindness. We were informed today that she left the boy $6,000 in her will. He is 14 years old, sensible, and has never been a problem to us. If he wanted to spend the money foolishly would he be free to do so? ---Las Vegas

Dear L.V.: See a lawyer. He will tell you that a minor cannot spend an inheritance without the consent of his parents or legal guardian. (In some states the age of majority is 18 or 19, other states it's 21.)

Dance Group To Perform At N.M.

NEW MADRID--On Nov. 17, the Delta Community Concerts Association will present the first of four concerts scheduled during the 1971-72 season.

Ruth Page's "Invitation To The Dance" will be performed at the New Madrid high school Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Miss Page, discovered by the prima ballerina, Anna Pavlova, will narrate the program while four dance soloists from her Chicago company perform.

The repertory will be selected from classical presentations such as "The Nutcracker," "Don Quixote" and "Sleeping Beauty."

Miss Page choreographic talents will be demonstrated by excerpts from her ballets including "The Merry Widow," ''Pygmalion,'' and "Improvisations."

BOYS TOWN CONCERT CHOIR of Boys Town, Neb., will present a program next Friday at 8 p.m. at the New Madrid high school auditorium.

New Madrid Only Town in State To Host Boys Town Concert Choir

NEW MADRID -- The Boys Town Choir of Boys Town, Nebraska, directed by Monsignor Francis P. Schmitt, will present a concert at 8 p.m. Friday at the New Madrid high school auditorium.

Their appearance at New Madrid, sponsored by the Rotary Club, is the only one in Missouri during the 26th annual national tour to 35 cities in the west and mid west.

J. Corbett Davis, general chairman, said today a capacity audience is expected to attend. A quota for patron ticket sales has been exceeded. "Sale of patron tickets has been the easiest job I've ever had," Davis said. Adult and student general admission tickets are available.

Ranging in age from 12 to 19 the choir travels in alternate years to theAtlantic and Pacific coasts.

The 35-voice concert choir is chosen on the basis of performance, seniority and good citizenship from among 200 in the vocal music department.

To be eligible for the concert group, the boys have to attend a full session of summer school to make up in advance the studies they will miss while on tour.

In addition, they have spent many hours mastering the repertoire.

Divided into three general classifications, the first part of the program consists of liturgical music by such composers as des Pres, Herman Schroeder and Brahms. The second portion is a group of compositions by contemporary composer, Ariel Ramirez. Music by modern composers, including Gershwin and Kodaly, is featured in the final group.

Selections and composers announced for the concert:

Part I: Come Again, Sweet Love by John Dowland, with instruments other than piano; Die Wollust in den Maien, by Johannes Brahms; Agnus Dei (Missa Psalmodica) by Herman Schroeder; Sanctus (Missa Pange Lingua) by Josquin des Pres; Two Carols, All this Time (English) by William Walton; A Litany by William Walton; and Brother Fire (Canticle to the Sun) by Seth Bingham.

Part II: Navidad Nuestra by Ariel Ramirez includes The Annunciation, The Pilgrimage, The Nativity, The Shepherds, The Three Kings and the The Flight with instruments other than piano.

Part III: Clap Yo Hands by George Gershwin; Liza by Gershwin; Spring by Theron Kirk; I Never Saw a Moor by Robert Muczynski; Himmelswalzer by Otto Siegl; Evening Song by Zoltan Kodaly; Shenandoah arranged by Gregg Smith; and Michie Banjo by Arnold Freed, with instruments other than piano.

Students in Home Ec IV class of Mrs. May Edwards will serve as hostesses at a reception following the concert.

The concert choir is scheduled to arrive Thursday afternoon at Sikeston by chartered bus and will stop at the Holiday Inn.

What's The Law

Couple Wants Adopted Child

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Glenn and his wife were so far removed from religion that they didn't even know what church they were staying away from.

Consequently, when they decided to adopt a child and filed the appropriate papers in court for that purpose, they ran into a problem.

Not belonging to a church and not believing in a Supreme Being left them with no invisible means of support, which presented an impediment to the adoption.

"Church affiliations," Glenn was told, "indicates a person's good moral fitness to rear a child. And, a lack of such affiliation indicates a lacking in more than just the affiliation. What's more," he was told, "atheism has no future."

"Maybe not," conceded Glenn, "but my morals are as fine as any that can be found and maybe a lot better. I don't have to go to church to hear a moralogue. While others may believe in God, I believe in me."

IN YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you turn down the adoption because Glenn and his wife lacked a religious belief?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that adoptions are granted when they are in the best interests of the child and a sincere belief in a religion may be indicative of the moral fitness of the persons seeking to adopt. However, noted the judge, an adoption cannot be denied just because the prospective adoptive parents do not profess a religion or a belief in a Supreme Being.

In such a case, he pointed out, the question is still whether they are fit to adopt and, to answer that question, the court must probe their moral character aside from religion. And, if all is satisfactory, the adoption must be granted. (Based upon a 1971 New Jersey Supreme Court Decision).

CONSRVATIONISTS HUNTING FOR TAX ON SOFT DRINKS

JEFFERSON CITY -- The tiny offices of the Conservation Federation of Missouri have been humming with activity recently. Volunteers cheerfully stuff envelopes, check mailing lists and write letters. Hand - drawn posters decorate the walls ,and there is an air of optimism.

The object of the activity, and the optimism, is a statewide initiative petition campaign to impose a special tax on soft frinks which would be used exclusively for conservation. The campaign aims at placing the tax measure before the voters in the form of a constitutional amendment in the November, 1972, general election.

The drive is led by a group called the Citizens Committee for Conservation, and much of its leadership comes from the Conservation Federation, a group of sportmen's clubs organized to promote the establishment of the state Conservation Commission in 1936. Ted Scott, a Buffalo lawyer, is chairman of the drive.

To get on the ballot, the petitions must be signed by eight per cent of the total vote for governor in the last election in seven of the state's 10 congressional districts. This would total about 90,000 signatures, but leaders of the drive predict they will collect 150,000.

The amendment would impose a one - cent tax on soft drinks up to 16 ounces and another penny for each additional 16 ounces. The revenue from the tax would go to the Missouri Department of Conservation and would be controlled by the department, not the state legislature. Backers of the drive predict the tax would mean about $21 million in yearly revenue, about double the department's present budget of $11 million.

The revenue must be used for conservation projects and the Department of Conservation has prepared a plan, "Design for Conservation", that proposes specific programs to be financed by the tax. Included would be land acquisition and development, a greater emphasis on wildlife research and an expanded program directed at those who neither hunt nor fish.

The measure is needed, supporters say, because of the increased demand being placed on the state's natural recreation areas. A growing population with increased leisure time has made it mandatory for the state to increase activity to insure availability of unspoiled recreation areas for future generations.

The tax on soft drinks was recommended in two separate studies, one by Arthur Betts, a financial consultant. The other by the University of Missouri School of Business and Public Administration. The studies point out a soft drink tax is broadly based, voluntary and not burdensome for the taxpayer and would produce the desired revenue.

The Department of Conservation now is financed almost entirely by hunter and fishermen and supporters of the tax say this has meant the commission has felt obligated to spend a major share of its revenue for fishing and hunting programs. Increased revenue from a broadened tax base would mean conservation programs benefitting more people.

The campaign has been endorsed by several state and national groups including the United Auto Workers, Sierra Club, American Association of University Women, Anglers of Missouri, American Rifle Association, Audobon Society and the Wildlife Management Institute. Campaign financing is by contribution, and several hunters' and conservation groups have donated money.

Opposition to the measure is led by bottlers who feel the proposed tax is discriminatory, taxing one industry to pay for what many people use. They also feel the tax would harm the soft drink industry in Missouri.

The bottlers have their own study to counter those of the amendment's supporters. Commissioned by the South Carolina Soft Drink Association and headed by a professor of economics at the University of South Carolina, the study points out that the tax is discriminatory and meets no criteria of "acceptable taxation." That is, the tax is not paid in proportion to public benefits received and is not levied on industries that enjoy relatively high levels of profit. The report also claims that the soft drink industry's growth in West Virginia has lagged far behind the national average since a soft drink tax was imposed there in 1951.

The bottlers also claim the tax would not yield the predicted $21 million in annual revenue, When similar taxes have been imposed in other states, soft drink sales have declined, the bottlers claim.

State Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, has joined the bottlers in opposing the tax. Schechter says the tax places an unfair burden on children who consume a high volume of soft drinks, is more than 2 1/2 times the present state tax on beer, and that a mineral severance tax would be a more equitable way of financing the program.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

O Lord, how great are thy works' and thy thoughts are very deep. Psalm 92:5

PRAYER: Father, we know men have found courage in the stars, triumph over sadness, and desolation in the blossoms of spring, and a promise of blessing in many a rain. Help us to become more aware of the beauty of nature that we so often take for granted. In the Galileans' name we pray. Amen.

New Transportation Organization Formed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- The old Missouri Good Roads and Streets Association was replaced Thursday with a broad - based Missouri Transportation and Development Council.

The president of the old organization, Louis R. Hughes Jr. of Sedalia, became president of the new one.

A banker, Hughes said modern day transportation is "a bigger problem than just roads and streets" and the new council "will do all it can to promote the economic welfare of this state."

The new council adopted as its purpose "to promote public interest and take action relative to programs of a total transportation system and associated development activities which will adequately and equitable service all phases of the urban, agricultural commercial, industrial and recreational needs of the state and to provide for the betterment, convenience and safety of its citizens; to collect and desseminate the unbiased facts regarding legislation, administration, finance, construction, maintenance and service in the best interests of the people of the state of Missouri."

Leaders of the new organization have expressed opposition to any diversion of highway user funds to any non - highway purposes but they shied away from putting that in the by laws at this time.

The organization has not taken a stand on Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' proposed $700 million bond issue plan for highways, mass transit and airport construction. Hughes said he personally would have to know more about the proposal before he could express himself.

Besides Hughes the officers are:

Vice -presidents — Francis Piepmeier of Sverdrup and Parcel, St. Louis; Carl Penzel of Jackson, Penzel Construction Co.; Dale Arn of Jefferson City, Fabick & Co.; Jay Warner of Kansas City, R. B. Jones and sons, Insurance.

The treasurer is Dwight Wheelen of Montgomery City, McClain Lime Quarry; Secretary, James E. Kelly of Independence, Editor of Midwest Contractor, and legal counsel, Lowell McCuskey of Linn.

Conference For Youth Held At SEMO State

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The White House Conference for Youth for District VI comprising Stoddard, Dunklin, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Perry, Madison, Cape Girardeau, Scott, Mississippi, St. Francis, and Ste. Genevieve counties met Thursday in the Memorial Ballroom of Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

Waggoner will make his home in Malden.

Morgan To Coordinate State Courses

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Dr. Willard J. Morgan, director of school services at Southeast Missouri State College, has assumed the task of arranging and coordinating both undergraduate and graduate extension courses offered by the college, it was announced today.

The new responsibility ties in with Dr. Morgan's other duties as school services director. These, in general, are to make the facilities and resources of Southeast Missouri State available to schools in its service area.

An extension course is any class not offered on the Southeast Missouri State campus in Cape Girardeau, and currently the college has 18 in operation throughout its service area, Dr. Morgan said.

Purpose of the extension offerings, Dr. Morgan said, is to provide college opportunities to as many persons as possible in the college district. He pointed out that an extension class may be organized at any time during the year and does not have to coincide with the dates of the college's regular semesters.

"We will try to be as flexible as possible and to fulfill the needs of the district," Dr. Morgan said.

Normally, Dr. Morgan commented, at least 17 students must enroll for an extension course for it to materialize. The cost is $17 per semester hour. All extension instructors are approved by Southeast Missouri State.

Cities where extension courses are currently under way are Portageville, Malden, Dexter, Flat River, Sikeston, St. Louis, Cruise, Bloomfield, Poplar Bluff and Hillsboro.

Anyone interested in bringing an extension class to his home area should contact Dr. Morgan at the college.

Dexter Unit To Conduct Firing

DEXTER — The 1221st Transportation Company (Light Truck), a Missouri Army National Guard unit from Dexter, will conduct weapons firing at the Wappapello Training Area on the weekend of Nov. 6-7.

Firing will begin about 8 a.m. and will end about 5 p.m. on both days.

The firing is being conducted to meet annual qualification and familiarization requirements.

The Wappapello Training Area is located on Route T in the vicinity of Little Brushy Church. The public is requested to observe warning signs posted at the training area.

Mayor Blames Looting On Fringe Element

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Mayor Peter F. Flaherty said that a "fringe element" was responsible for "some looting" which occurred in downtown Pittsburgh last Sunday when an estimated 100,000 persons jammed the area after the Pirates had won the World Series.

He said he stimates that about 96 per cent of those who got downtown through a massive traffic jam were there only to welcome the Pirates. And he said he felt there was an "overemphasis on the violence" that night by the news media.

"There was no serious crime that took place in the downtown area, there were no serious injuries, there were no rapes and there were no shootings," Flaherty told interviewer Paul Cunningham on NBC's Today show.

"We did have damages," Flaherty added. "It was mostly broken store windows."

Flaherty's comments came during a discussion of media coverage of the events of Oct. 17.

Others involved in the discussion, which originated at Television Station WIIC here, were station reporter Eleanor Schano, who was in the downtown area that night; Judy Nees, a resident who was there, and Nelson Briles, pitcher for the Pirates who entered the city in a motorcade after the team flew back here from Baltimore.

"I admit there was some looting," Flaherty said. "Most of the damage was to downtown stores. We haven't had any report of more than $2,000 damage to any one store."

Mrs. Nees said she felt reports of violence downtown were "overexaggerated." She said she had taken her young son to the city to see the Pirates and that she experienced no trouble.

"We saw the people happy, gay. I saw happy fellows who were totally immersed in water from a fire hydrant they had had opened."

Thieves Raid Pinball Machine

LILBOURN — Thieves broke into Lilbourn Billiards Tuesday night or Wednesday morning and took change from a pinball machine.

City Marshal Fred Roe said entry was gained through the front door.

Amount of money in the machine was not determined.

Q—Where do historians believe the game of croquet originated?

A—In France, where it was known as "paille-maille," and later imported into England as "pall-mall." It was played as early as the 1600s in both countries.

Chiefs Stop Skins

It took a full - scale Indian war to stop the rampaging Redskins and, when the dust settled, it was -- quite naturally -- the Chiefs who subdued the tribe.

The Washington Redskins went into Sunday's National Football League action as the only undefeated team and appeared they.d stay that way as they carried a 17-6 lead into the second half against Kansas City.

But 30 minutes and three Len Dawson touchdown passes later, the Chiefs were whooping it up with a 27-20 victory.

In Sunday's other games, Chicago defeated Detroit 28-23, Miami beat the New York Jets 30-14, Philadelphia whipped the New York Giants 23-7, Dallas demolished New England 44-21, Oakland edged Cincinnati 31-27, Atlanta dumped New Orleans 28-6, Los Angeles shelled Green Bay 30-13, Denver stunned Cleveland 27-0, San Francisco slapped St. Louis 26-14 and Pittsburgh turned back Houston 23-16.

In Saturday night's lone game, San Diego smothered Buffalo 20-3. And tonight, in a nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EDT) contest that looms as a brutal defensive collision, Baltimore is at Minnesota.

Dawson, who wound up completing 10 of 23 passes for 203 yards, began hitting with consistency in the second half. He hit his favorite receiver, Otis Taylor, with scoring strikes of 26 and 28 yards and found Elmo Wright with a 15 - yarder.

That wiped out the first - half heroics of Washington passer Billy Kilmer, who teamed with Charley Taylor on touchdown tosses of four an;36 yeards.

What would have been a day of rejoicing for the Bears became one of mourning for all of pro football as Lions wide receiver Chuck Hughes, a five - year veteran from Texas, collapsed on the field and died a short time later of what Detroit team physician Dr. Richard Thompson said was apparently a raptured major blood vessel.

Third - string quarterback Bobby Douglass directed the Chicago upset, throwing touchdowns of 54 and 15 yards, then plunging over from the one for the winning score.

"We can do this against anybody," Larry Csonka said after scoring two touchdowns and teaming with Jim Kiick to roll up a massive 258 yards on the ground in the Dolphins' romp over the Jets.

The Cowboys opened their new home, Texas Stadium, in grand style as Rober Staubach threw touchdowns of 35 and 28 yards to Bob Hayes and ran two yards for another score against the outgunned Patriots.

George Blanda, who made a habit of saving the Raiders last season, came off the bench against the Bengals to direct his teammates to two touchdowns and a come - from - behind victory.

Another sub quarterback, Dick Shiner of the Falcons, also sparkled as he passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third against the Saints.

Roman Gabriel was the Rams' star, passing for three touchdowns in their victory over the Packers while the Broncos held the Browns' potent ground game to a measly 36 yards in their upset romp.

Basketball Opens

PARMA -- Southeast Missouri's 1971-72 high school basketball season gets underway Monday night as action in the Parma junior varisty invitational basketball tournament tips off the campaign.

Top seeded Lilbourn collides with Campbell in the 6:30 p.m. opener. Matthews goes against Twin Rivers in the 8 p.m. nightcap.

Tournament action resumes Tuesday with second seeded Richland battling Risco at 6:30 p.m. and third rated Parma meeting Bernie at 8 p.m.

Semi final round action is slated Thursday with the finals scheduled Friday.

Bowling School

All adults in the Sikeston, Missouri area who are interested in working with young people in the American Junior Bowling Congress program are invited to attend a one -day certified coach - instructor school at Imperial Lanes Saturday.

The school will begin at 9:00 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. There is no cost involved. Conducting the school will be AJBC Field Representative Harry Tuma, Wheaton, Ill.

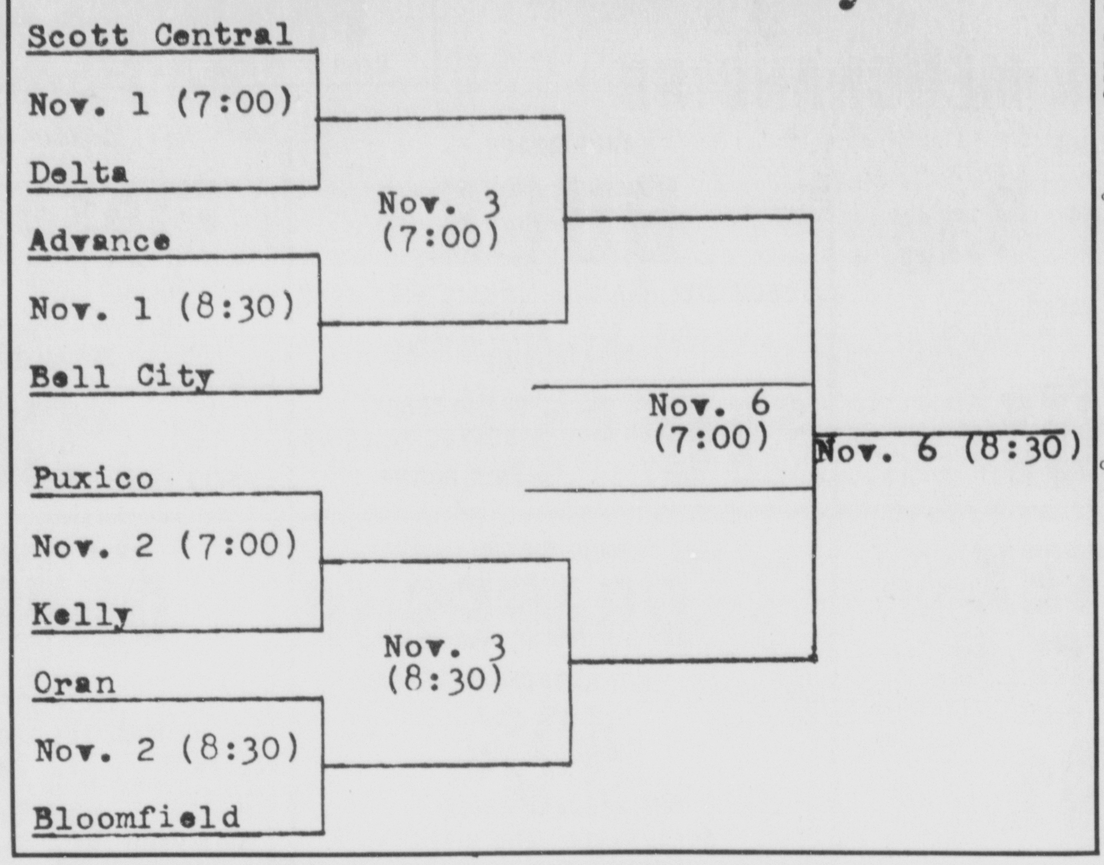

To qualify for certification as a certified coach - instructor, an individual must attend the class and pass a written examination given at the close of the day.

The school emphasizes mass teaching techniques with demonstration of stance, pushaway, footwork, arm swing, timing, release of the ball and follow - through. Stressed also are the mechanics of ball action, how to deliver a hook ball, speed of the ball, how to correct throwing of the backup ball, strike angles and spare bowling.

Major bowling faults, proper ball fit, bowling attire and etiquette are covered as well as a discussion of the AJBC program and its benefits with suggestions on how to promote, organize and conduct junior leagues.

The school is part of the AJBC service program and, along with the Certified Coach clinic, results in the training of more than 5000 adults each year by the AJBC staff.

Football Death

DETROIT (AP) — What does a football player say after a game in which one of his teammates collapsed and died? What can he say? Words were replaced by tears and bowed heads as the Detroit Lions filed solemnly from their dressing room Sunday after a 28-23 upset National Football League loss to the Chicago Bears.

Chuck Hughes was dead.

The likable, 28-year-old Lion wide receiver collapsed on the field with a minute left in the game and at 4:41 p.m., about an hour after the game, was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital.

Dr. Richard A. Thompson, one of two team physicians, said an autopsy would be performed today but added that cause of death was likely a ruptured vessel of the aorta, heart, or possibly the brain.

"He's dead, he's dead," muttered one the Lions as he walked sadly from the dressing room after hearing the news.

"I'm horrified and shocked. He was a great player and a great person," said Lions owner William Clay Ford, his voice quivering with grief, in a filmed interview shortly after the tragic announcement.

"Everyone was praying a miracle would happen and that he would pull through," he added.

Newmen were barred from the dressing room, where the Lions said a team prayer for Hughes and waited—hopefully, but pessimistically—for news from Henry Ford Hospital of his condition.

The game that so many men have chosen to make their prime occupation had claimed a victim. It was a stunning development. It was hard for everyone to believe, including those in the crowd of 54,419 who witnessed Hughes collapse but probably didn't learn of his death until listening to radio reports in their cars enroute home.

Hughes had replaced injured Larry Walton in the fourth quarter and caught a 32-yard pass from Greg Landry with 1:38 remaining. He was immediately sandwiched by Bob Jeter and Garry Lyle of the Bears. The next three plays of the desperation drives were incomplete Landry passes, and it was after the third that Hughes, heading for the huddle, clutched his chest and collapsed on the 15-yard line.

"He came back to the huddle and seemed okay," a spokesman quoted Landry as saying. "Nobody thought anything ot it."

A few crucial seconds passed before anyone realized the gravity of the injury, and Detroit officials rushed to his aid. He had been lying on his stomach but was quickly turned over, with Dr. Thompson pounding his chest in external massage while the other team physician, Dr. Edwin Guise, gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Also helping was Dr. Eugene Boyle, an anesthesiologist, who came out of the stands.

Hughes was put on a stretcher and taken to the hospital.

Champion At Checkers From Nebraska

OSKALOOSA, Iowa (AP) — Lloyd Mills of Lincoln, Neb., defeated 51 competititors Sunday to win the Region 7 American Checker Federation's crossboard tournament.

The tourney, held here Saturday and Sunday, drew competitors from Iowa, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Missouri, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Mills, who is a 23-time Nebraska champion and has won the regional tourney on three other occasions, edged Jack Mourning, of Savage, Minn.

Leo Barton of Hannibal, Mo., finished third, while fourth went to Ed Bartels, of Spirit Lake. F. W. Leonard, of Fulton, Mo., took fifth place.

Batels, whoo has won the Iowa state checker championship on three occasions, is also a three-time district champion and a winner in the Iowa State Fair checker tournament. Prior to 1967, he was eight-time winner of the Minnesota title.

Underclassmen Star In SEMO State Win

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Underclassmen played key roles in Southeast Missouri State College's 20-13 homecoming football victory over Washburn university Saturday afternoon.

Sophomore John Gabrisch got the Indians on the scoreboard in the second quarter with an electrifying 95 - yard kickoff return after Washburn had taken the lead seconds earlier on Kevin McCormick's one-yard plunge. Freshman Extra Point Specialist Carl Gross, put the Indians in lead when he split the uprights for a 7-6 advantage.

SEMO went ahead 13-6 in the second quarter when Sophomore Quarterback Lance Brune scampered six yards. That lead was short lived. Washburn put seven points on the board early in the third period on another McCormick one - yard plunge and Russ Hill's extra point kick to knot the score at 13-13.

Freshman Fullback Dennis Helms cracked over from one yard out in the fourth quarter. Gross added the extra point to give the Indians its deciding margin.

Northeast Tops MIAA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri Valley hopes to take a big step toward the championship of the Heart of America Conference this week.

The Vikings are first with a 4-0 record and William Jewell is next at 3-1. Those two teams collide at Liberty Saturday. Valley also needs to win if it hopes to continue its climb in the NAIA rankings, which showed the Vikes seventh last week.

Northeast of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association matched Valley's 5-1 season record by ripping Central Missouri, 21-6, and upping its MIAA record to 2-0. Southwest Missouri remained without a victory in six starts but the Bears scrambled the MIAA picture by knotting MU-Rolla, 2020.

Rolla now stands 1-0-1 in the league. Northwest, which provides the opposition for Northeast this week, climbed to 2-1 with a 20-14 triumph over Lincoln University. Southeast, 2013 victor over Washburn, Kan., in a non-league game, is next at 1-1 in the MIAA.

Missouri Valley made it five straight with a 32-14 trouncing of winless Baker, 0-4-2. Tarkio dropped a painful 7-0 decision when College of Emporia completed a 56-yard touchdown pass with 19 seconds remaining. William Jewell tapped Central Methodist, 26-14.

State independents produced a team with a winning record for the first time this year when Washington-St. Louis outlasted Valparaiso, Ind., 31-28, and climbed to 3-2.

Three other independents finished the day with 2-5 campaign records. Culver-Stockton nipped Missouri Western, 6-0, and Missouri Southern fell 28-10 victim to undefeated Arkansas Tech, last week the No. 2 team in the NAIA Division 1 rankings.

Northeast again got strong leadership from quarterback Bob Gibson, who lofted touchdown passes of 29 and 41 yards to Tom Geregine. Bruce Ayers launched three touchdown passes and Dewey Buck ran for two more in keeping Valley rolling.

Dave Frisch's 60-yard runback with an interception sparked William Jewell to a pair of second-half touchdowns and a comeback win over Central Methodist.

Southeast got a one-yard TD plunge by Eddie Moss with just over three minutes remaining to trim Washburn. The score was set up with a 69-yard gallop by Moss, who rushed for 198 yards.

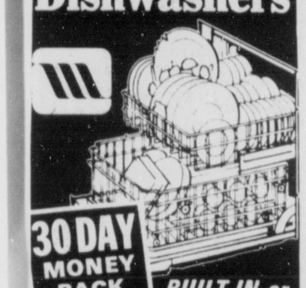

Northwest packed all its 30 pointsiinto the third quarter against Lincoln with Steve McCluskey setting a heady pace. McCluskey fired touchdown passes of 18 yards to Bob Endy and 46 yards to Dave Hansen, then switched roles and hauled in a 16-yard scoring toss from Curtis Priest.

Why The Bible is a CATHOLIC Book

The Bible is a Catholic Book:

Because members of the Catholic Church, under God's inspiration wrote the New Testament in its entirety.

Because it was the Catholic Church which treasured it and gave it to the world in its original and unaltered form. It is the infallible authority of the Catholic Church that always has been the only sure guarantee of its inspiration.

Established by Jesus Christ Himself and rapidly spread among the nations of the world, the Catholic Church was carrying on Christ's work for the salvation of men some 60 years before the Apostle John wrote his book of the New Testament.

For more than a thousand years afterward, the Scriptures were preserved and circulated by Catholic monks and scholars who laboriously copied the sacred text by hand. And the Bible authorized by the Catholic Church was the first book produced by Gutenberg upon the invention of printing with movable type.

Although the Bible is a Catholic Book it is a book for all Christians and indeed all people. A proper understanding of the Scriptures can exert a tremendous influence for good in your personal life. You should, therefore, know where we get the Bible . . . what it means . . . why you can believe its every word. If you would like to investigate more thoroughly the relationship of the Catholic Church to the Bible, to Christ and to you—you owe it to yourself to get the facts.

Write today for a short free course of instruction—no cost—no obligation. You can read it in the privacy of your home.

Former Newsman Visits Communes

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

ROBERT HOURIET

NEW YORK (AP) — "Communes are pointing the way to the kind of society we are going to be forced to adopt," declares Robert Houriet, who spent a year visiting 50 communal experiments over the country to learn why more and more Americans are choosing this life style.

The former newsman began his 10,000-mile odyssey after leaving his newspaper job in protest. He supported the right of one of his reporters to wear long hair against the publisher's wishes.

Skeptical and cynical at the start, Houriet found his own commitment to the movement "sort of snuck up" on him. The title of the book he has written about his experiences, "Getting Back Together," refers to going back in time as well as getting back to the land, he explains.

"Communes resemble 1871 more than 1971 and there is a lot to be said for the way people lived in 1871," says the 34-year-old author whose house in Vermont has no electricity. "We shouldn't forget all technology, but we should first go back and then go forward and take the right route this time. I have a feeling that civilization got off the major road and got on a detour that's going off a cliff."

The lanky, bearded Houriet found the common denominator of all the places he visited was a belief that the land and nature was the basis for a good society — a conviction he shares.

"When we destroy our natural environment we not only befoul our nest, but we also undermine certain psychological underpinnings of man," he says. "When we cover the natural environment with asphalt and plastic man grows neurotic and frustrated and starts to turn to other forms of sensory escape, such as drugs and alcohol, to compensate for what is missing in life."

Houriet adds that the stereotype of communarians as involved primarily with drugs and sex doesn't fit. "In the whole trip I saw no one shoot up heroin or use speed. But I did see ex-junkies and ex-speed freaks who had gone to the communes in search of some natural rehabilitation. As for sex, couples predominate and for the time they are together they are fairly monogamous. It's not as orgiastic as people think."

At least 2,000 communal experiments are in operation in rural sections of the country and the number rapidly is expanding, Houriet reports. The trend of the movement is from communes to communities.

"Communes, which have no clearly defined purpose or structure, foster more intense interaction among people, since they usually live in the same house," he elaborates. "They attract younger people who are on the road, searching, restless, and there is a big turnover and surface instability."

Communities, he notes, are more organized and traditional, made up of separate dwellings, and they tend to attract more settled older people, often with children. In many cases they are built around a specific craft, industry or body of faith.

"There are no failures and no successes," he says. "Whatever works for you is a successful plan. Because some communes break up doesn't make them failures. People still were changed, grew. Some stay together and go on to try other experiences, looking back on the previous one as part of the growth process.

"There is no magic formula, but I know some problems to avoid," continues Houriet, who plans to start his own community in northern Vermont. "I want to make sure the land is owned by the group and not by an individual, because when one person owns land he becomes sort of a natural dictator. And there has to be a process for settling disputes and for making decisions."

Houriet, a Phi Beta Kappa, has a BA degree from Brown University, a Master of Science degree from the Columbia School of Journalism and a Master of Arts in Literature from New York University. His wife, a Wellesley graduate, shares her husband's enthusiasm for living in the country in some kind of community arrangement. They have two children.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Oct. 25, the 298th day of 1971. There are 67 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, Germany and Italy formed the Rome Berlin axis, pledging mutual assistance in case of war.

On this date—

In 1701, a city charter was granted to Philadelphia.

In 1838, the French composer, Georges Bizet, was born in Paris.

In 1854, Britain's heroic charge of the Light Brigade took place near Sevastopol, Russia, during the Crimean War.

In 1938, the Chinese government, fleeing Japanese invaders, established itself at Chungking.

In 1941, in World War II, German troops captured Kharkov in the Soviet Ukraine.

In 1944, the second battle of the Philippine Sea was being fought.

Ten years ago: The United States protested to the Soviet Union after East Germany said foreigners entering East Berlin would have to show their passports.

Five years ago: Former Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio was sentenced to death for his part in a Communist attempt to seize control of Indonesia.

One year ago: About 25 persons were killed in Colombia when avalanches swept away stretches of a mountain road.

Today's birthdays: Ex-King Michael of Romania is 50.

Thought for today: With all thy getting get understanding -- The Bible.

Cooney Implement Entered But Nothing Missing

Cooney Equipment company on highway 61 south was broken into over the weekend, but apparently the thieves were not successful. Nothing was reported missing.

Cooney officials said two rear doors were broken into and a chain that divides the offices from the remainder of the building had been severed.

Police were puzzled about the thieves intentions when it was discovered that a small amount of money on an office shelf was left untouched. Apparently no attempt was made to open the company safe or any of file cabinets.

The equipment company was the target of theives two weeks ago, but little was reported missing.

Car Hits Bridge

MATTHEWS — Two East Prairie residents suffered face and head cuts in a single car mishap Friday seven miles east of Matthews.

At 10 p.m. on a gravel road, a 1961 Ford traveling west, driven by Frank Eugene Hunsperger, 43, of East Prairie, went out of control on gravel, the highway patrol said, left the road and struck a bridge.

Hunsperger and a passenger, Edward Emsley Ditto, 42, of East Prairie, sustained the injuries and were taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.
